THE HEROES

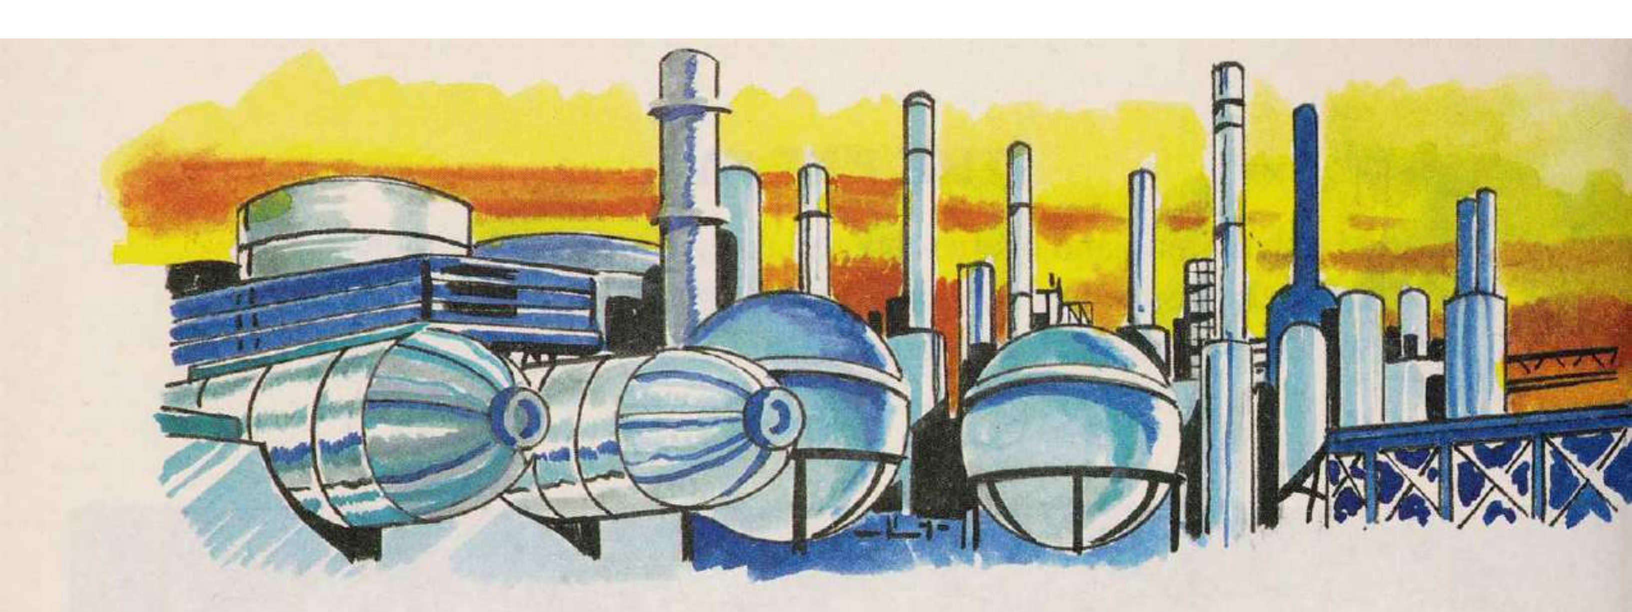

The Director General and his Robot Changer fleet – mighty warriors that change into vehicles as they move from planet to planet protecting the galaxy from the evil Marshal Small.

THE ENEMY

Marshal Small and his fierce Zzerial warriors that also change into vehicles as they zoom across the galaxy in constant battle with the peace-loving Robot Changer fleet.

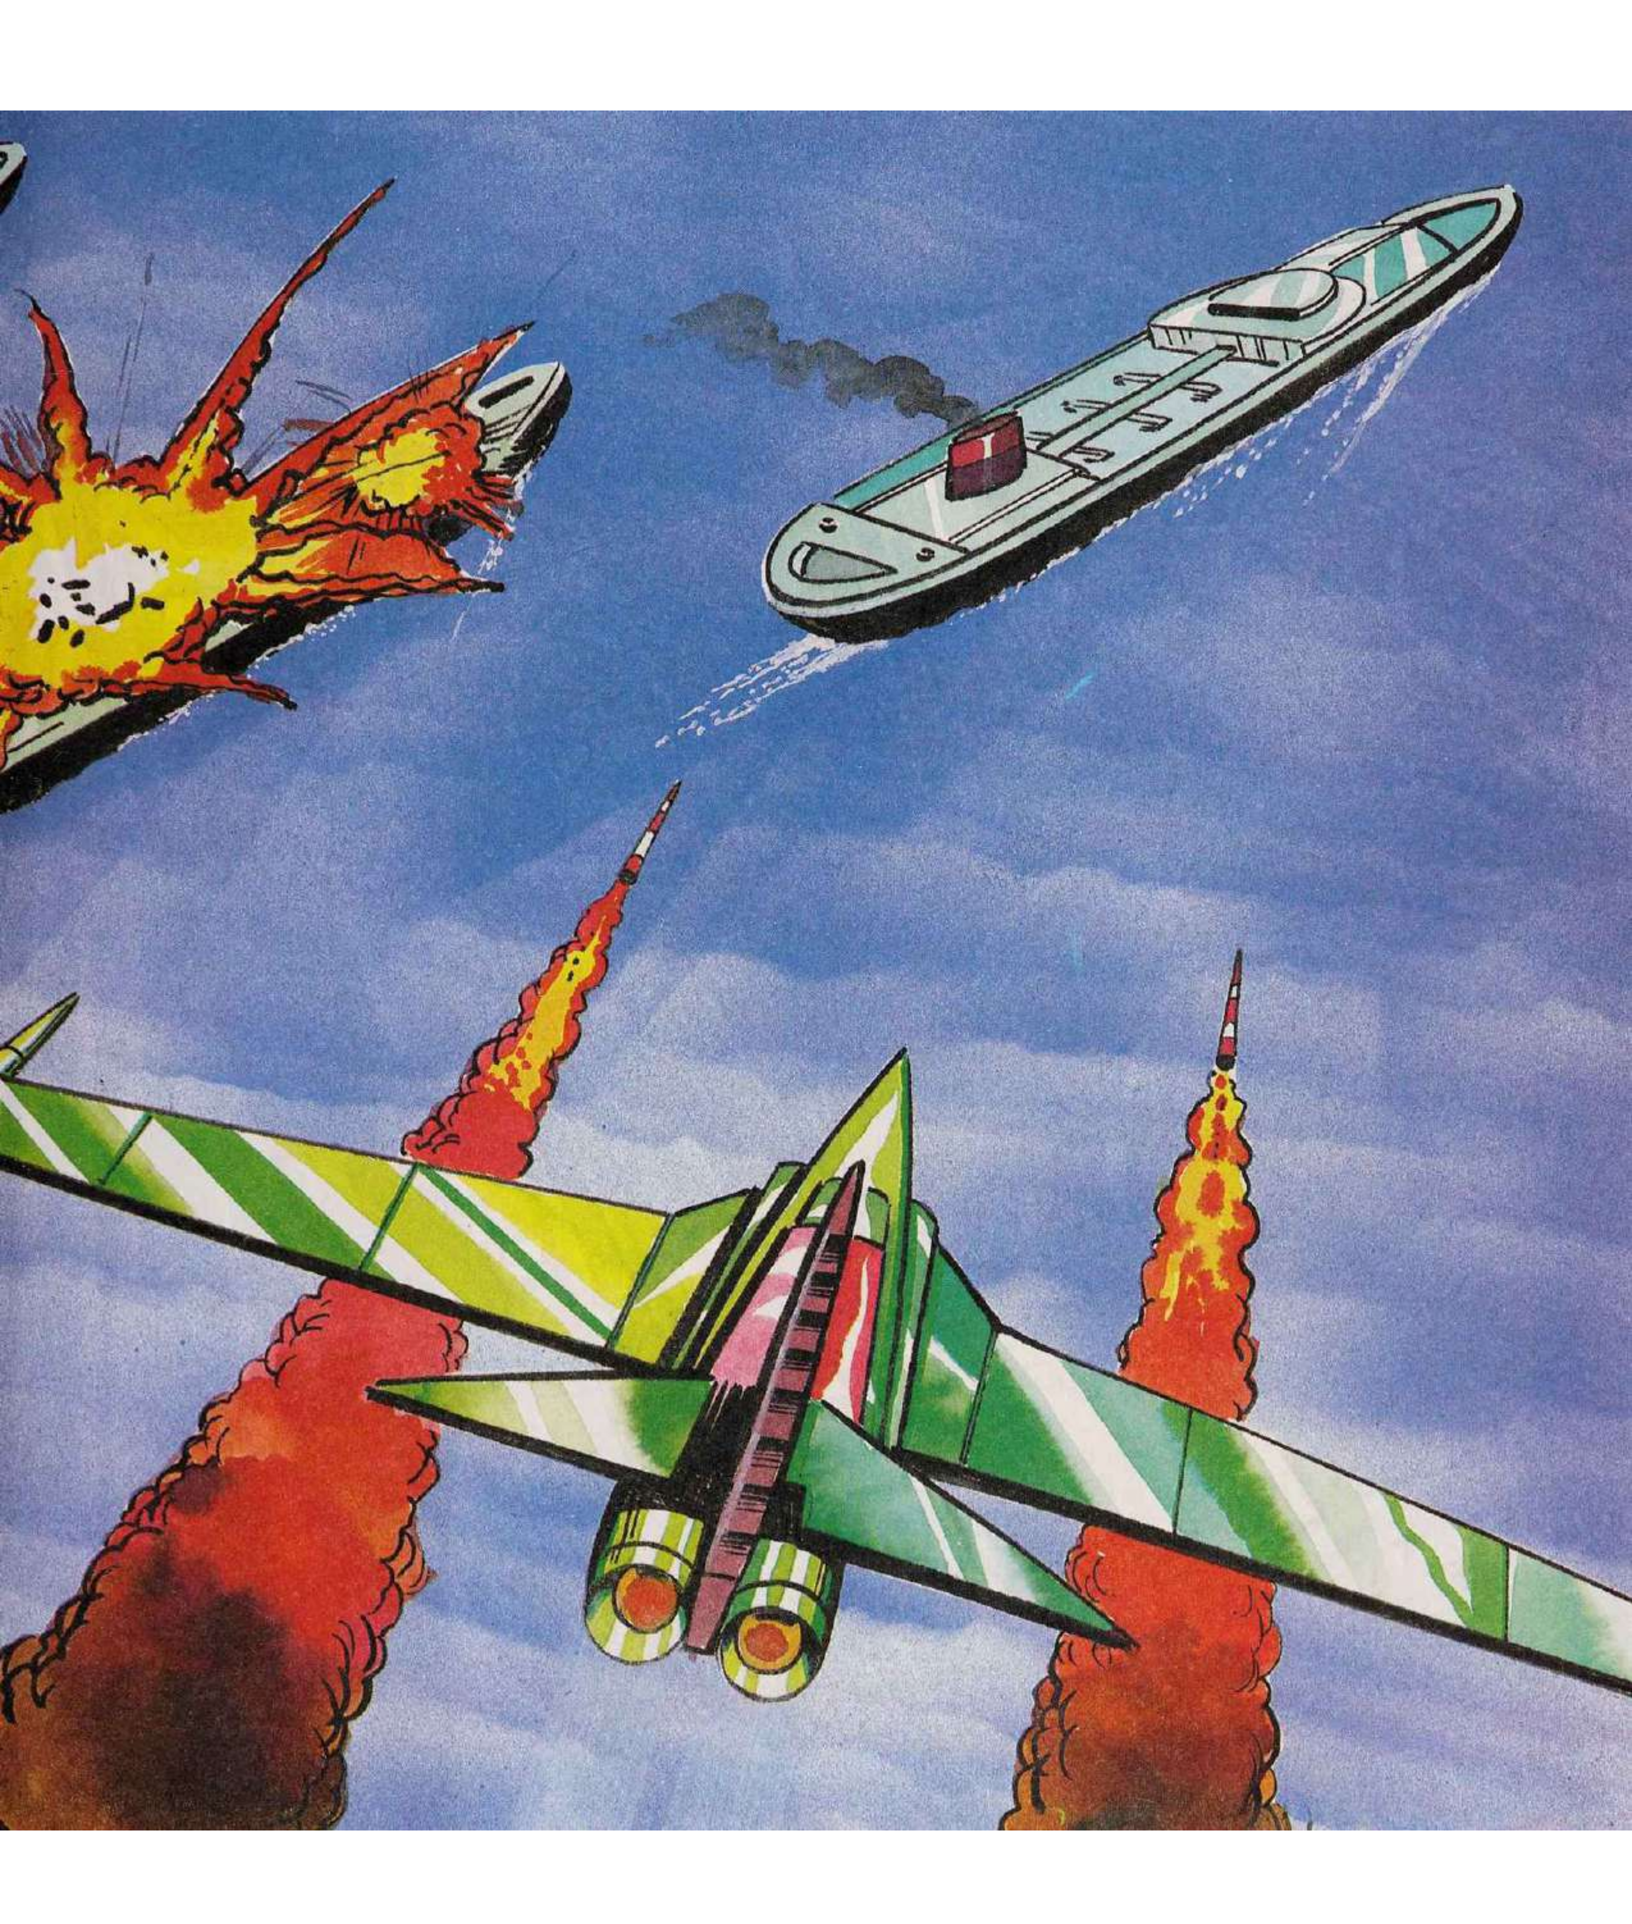

The evil Marshal Small sat in the Central Control Room in Galaxy 9E, staring at the message on the computer screen just sent to him by his henchman, who was on special assignment checking the inventory of supplies needed to keep the Zzerial forces operational. He assembled his warriors, the Zzerials, and told them: "The fuel that we need to keep our fleet on patrol is dangerously low. Attack Earth and plunder all available oil sources immediately."

Two of the Marshal's warriors went into action. Racing toward the Gulf of Mexico, they discovered three oil tankers. They destroyed the lead tanker.

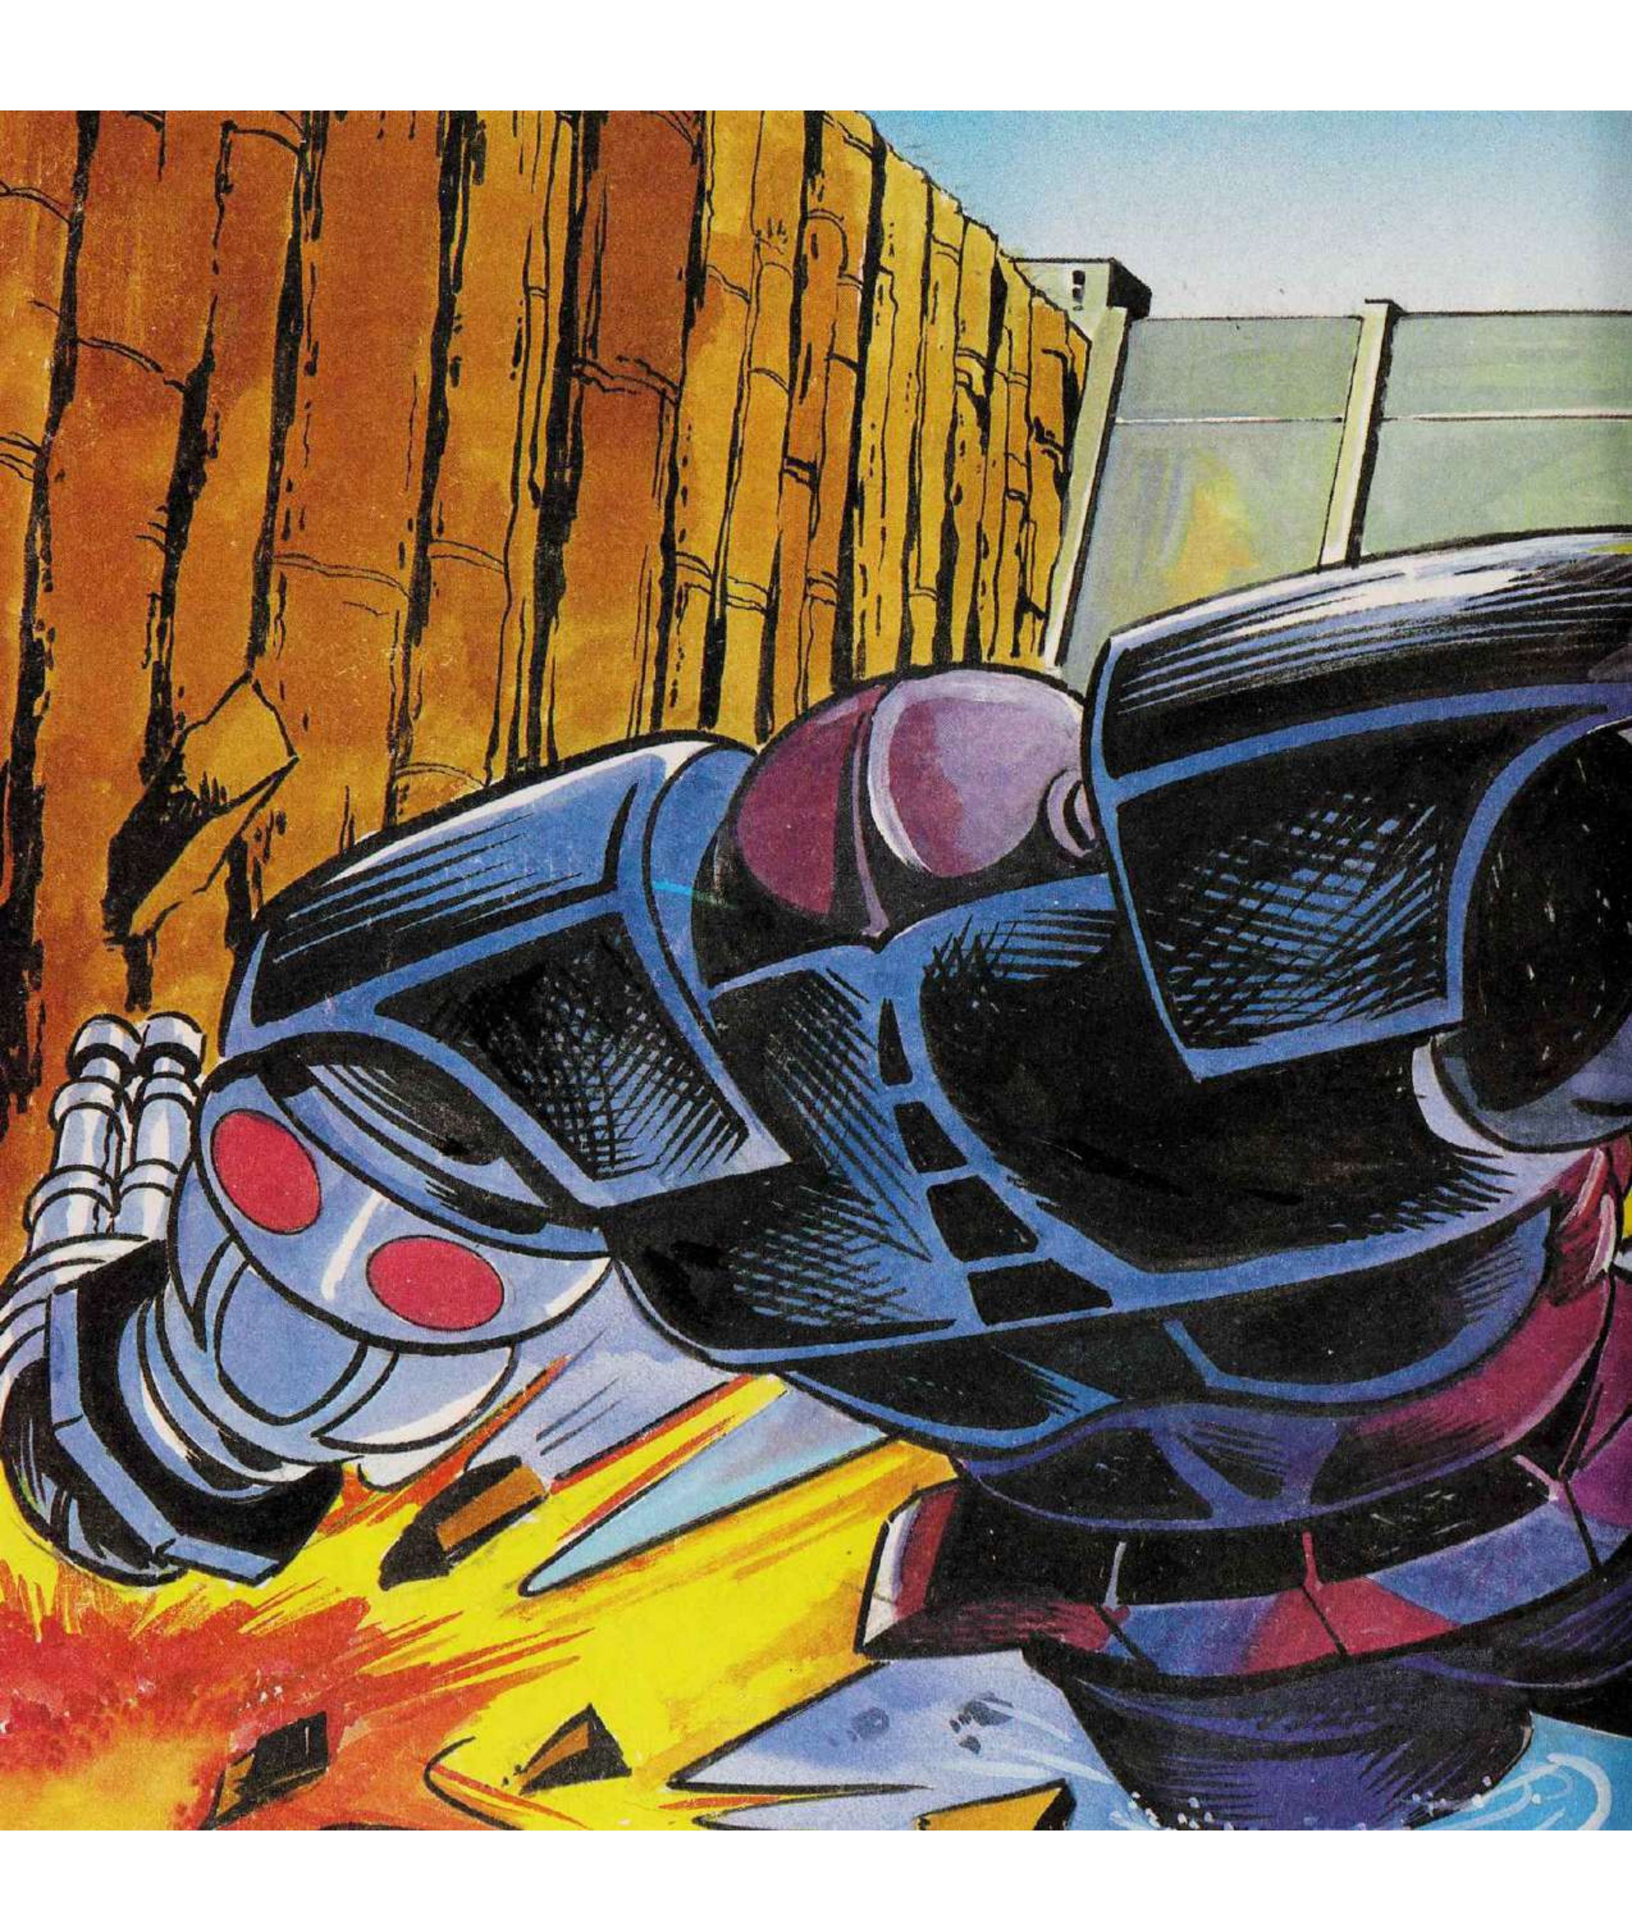

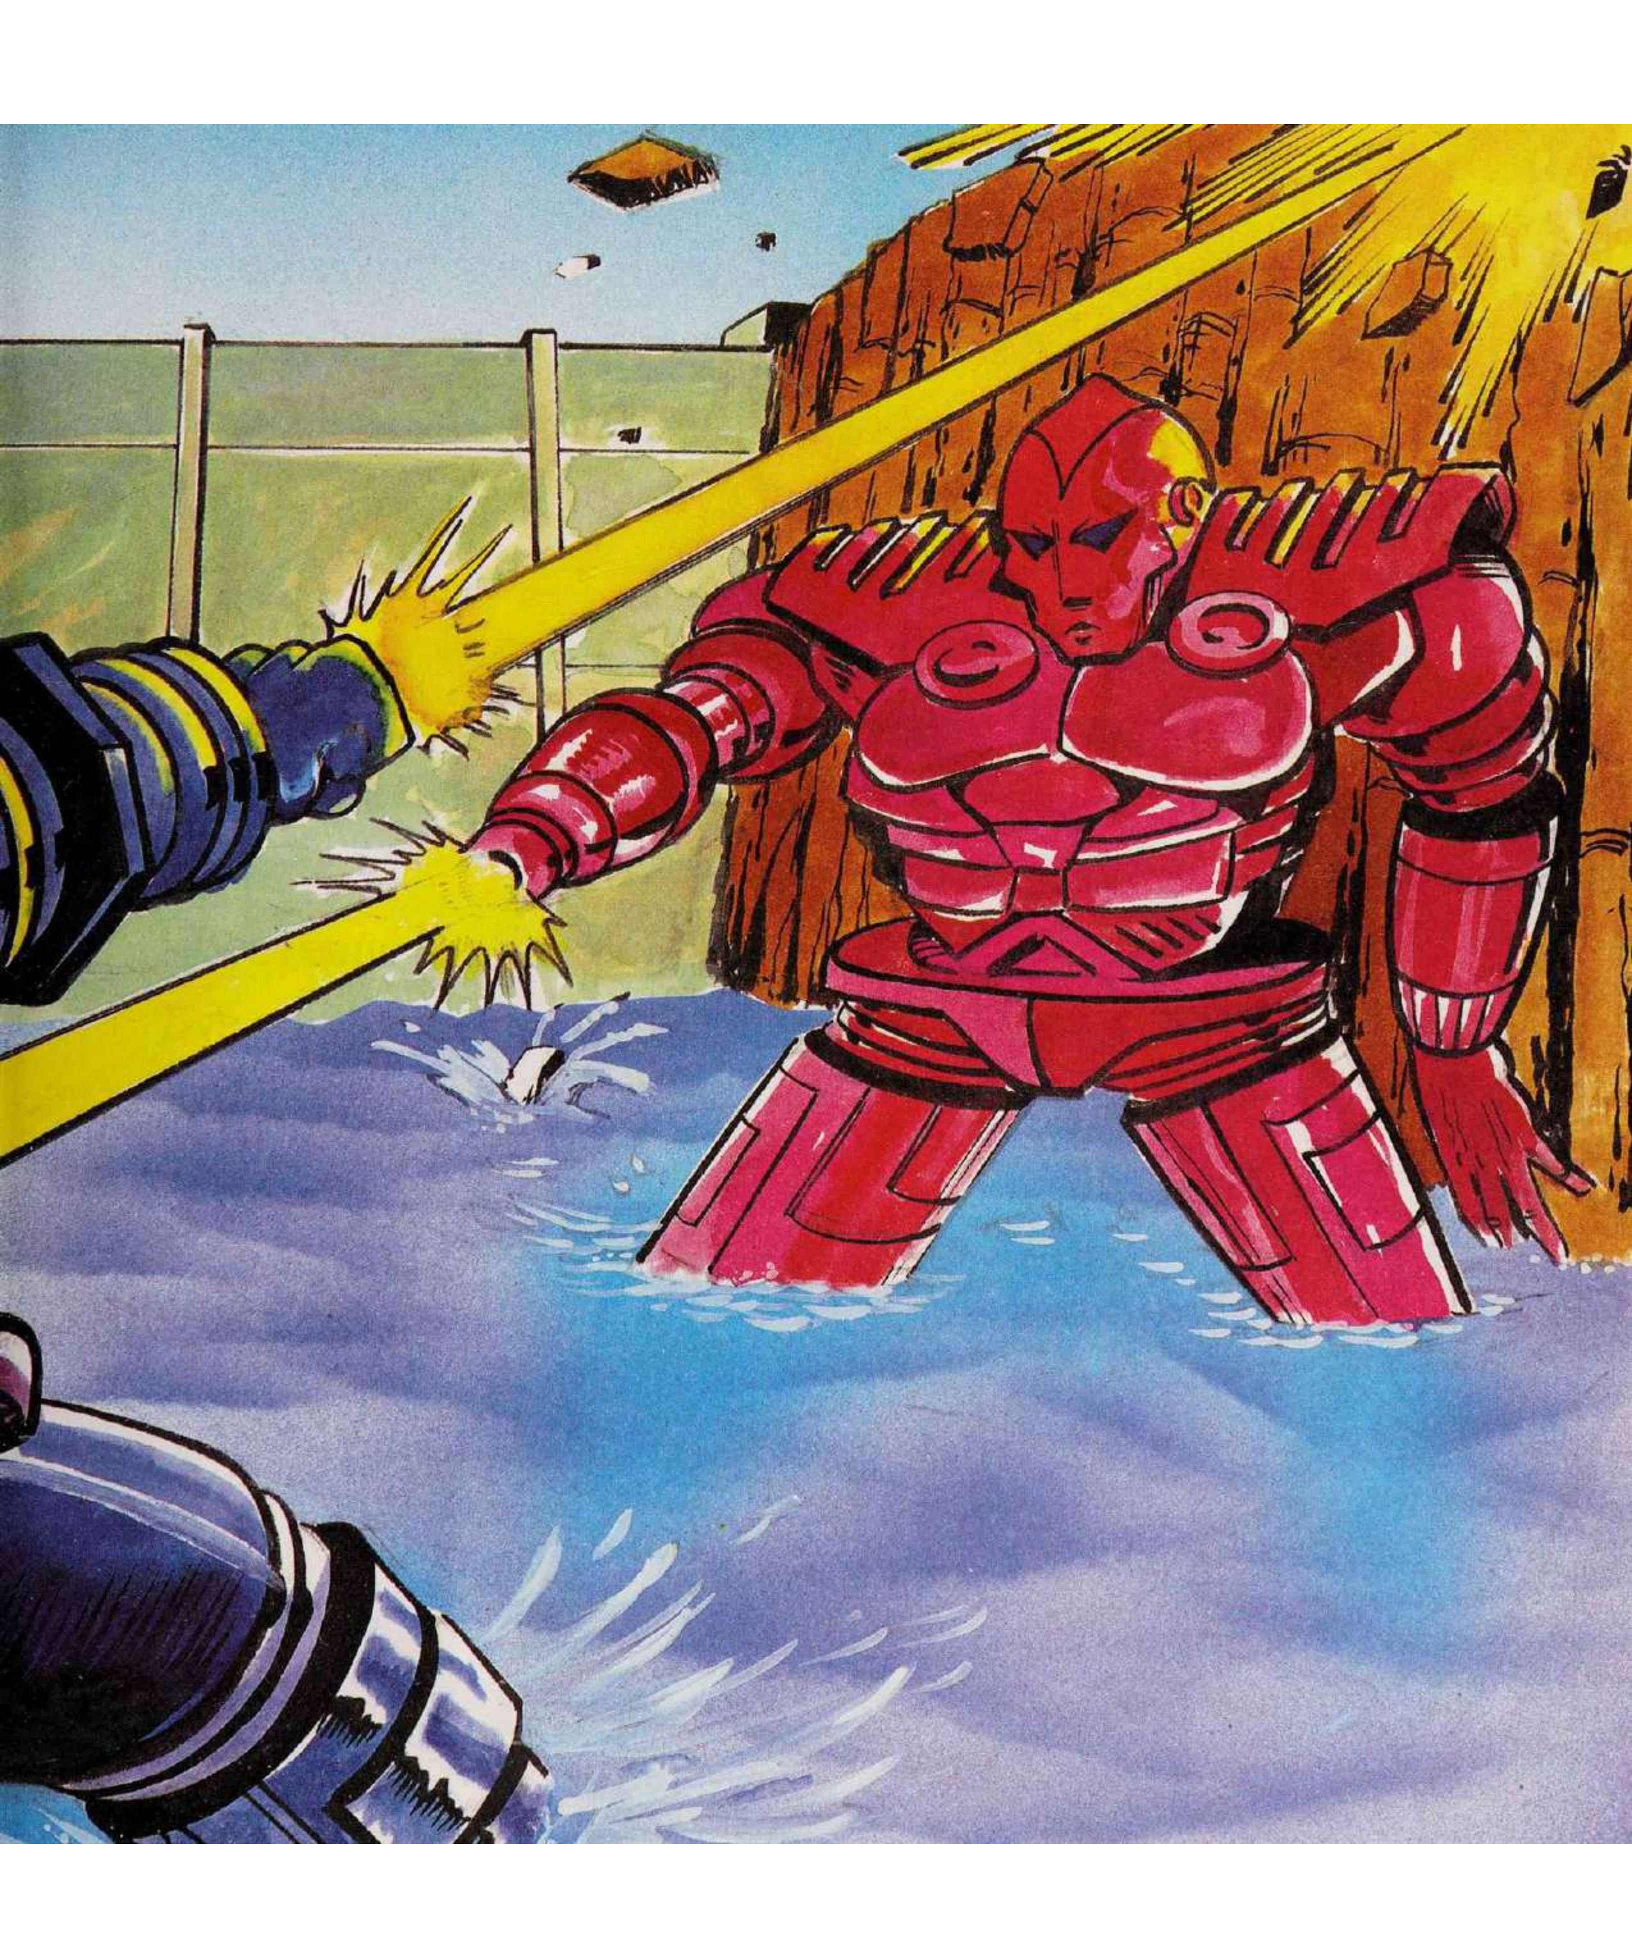

One Zzerial remained on patrol, while the other transformed into the shape of the lead tanker. The remaining tankers followed it to the refinery where Small had already dispatched a space cargo carrier that would transport the fuel to holding tanks in Galaxy 9E.

When the Marshal was told that the tankers had been captured, he sent his evil robot, Beckmall, to Earth to destroy a major city as a diversion while Root and support Zzerials stripped the planet of its oil reserves. Beckmall's task was to capture the huge dam near the city, flood the city and keep its occupants and security forces busy while Small continued his plundering.

Meanwhile, on the planet Qualken, Victor and his Robot Changers – the protectors of the galaxy – were just being informed by the Director General of the trouble on Earth. Immediately, the Director General dispatched his chief Fedic to stop Beckmall at the dam.

A fierce laser battle started in the high reservoir behind the dam. It lasted for hours. At last, the Fedic stopped the dark menacing shape of Beckmall.

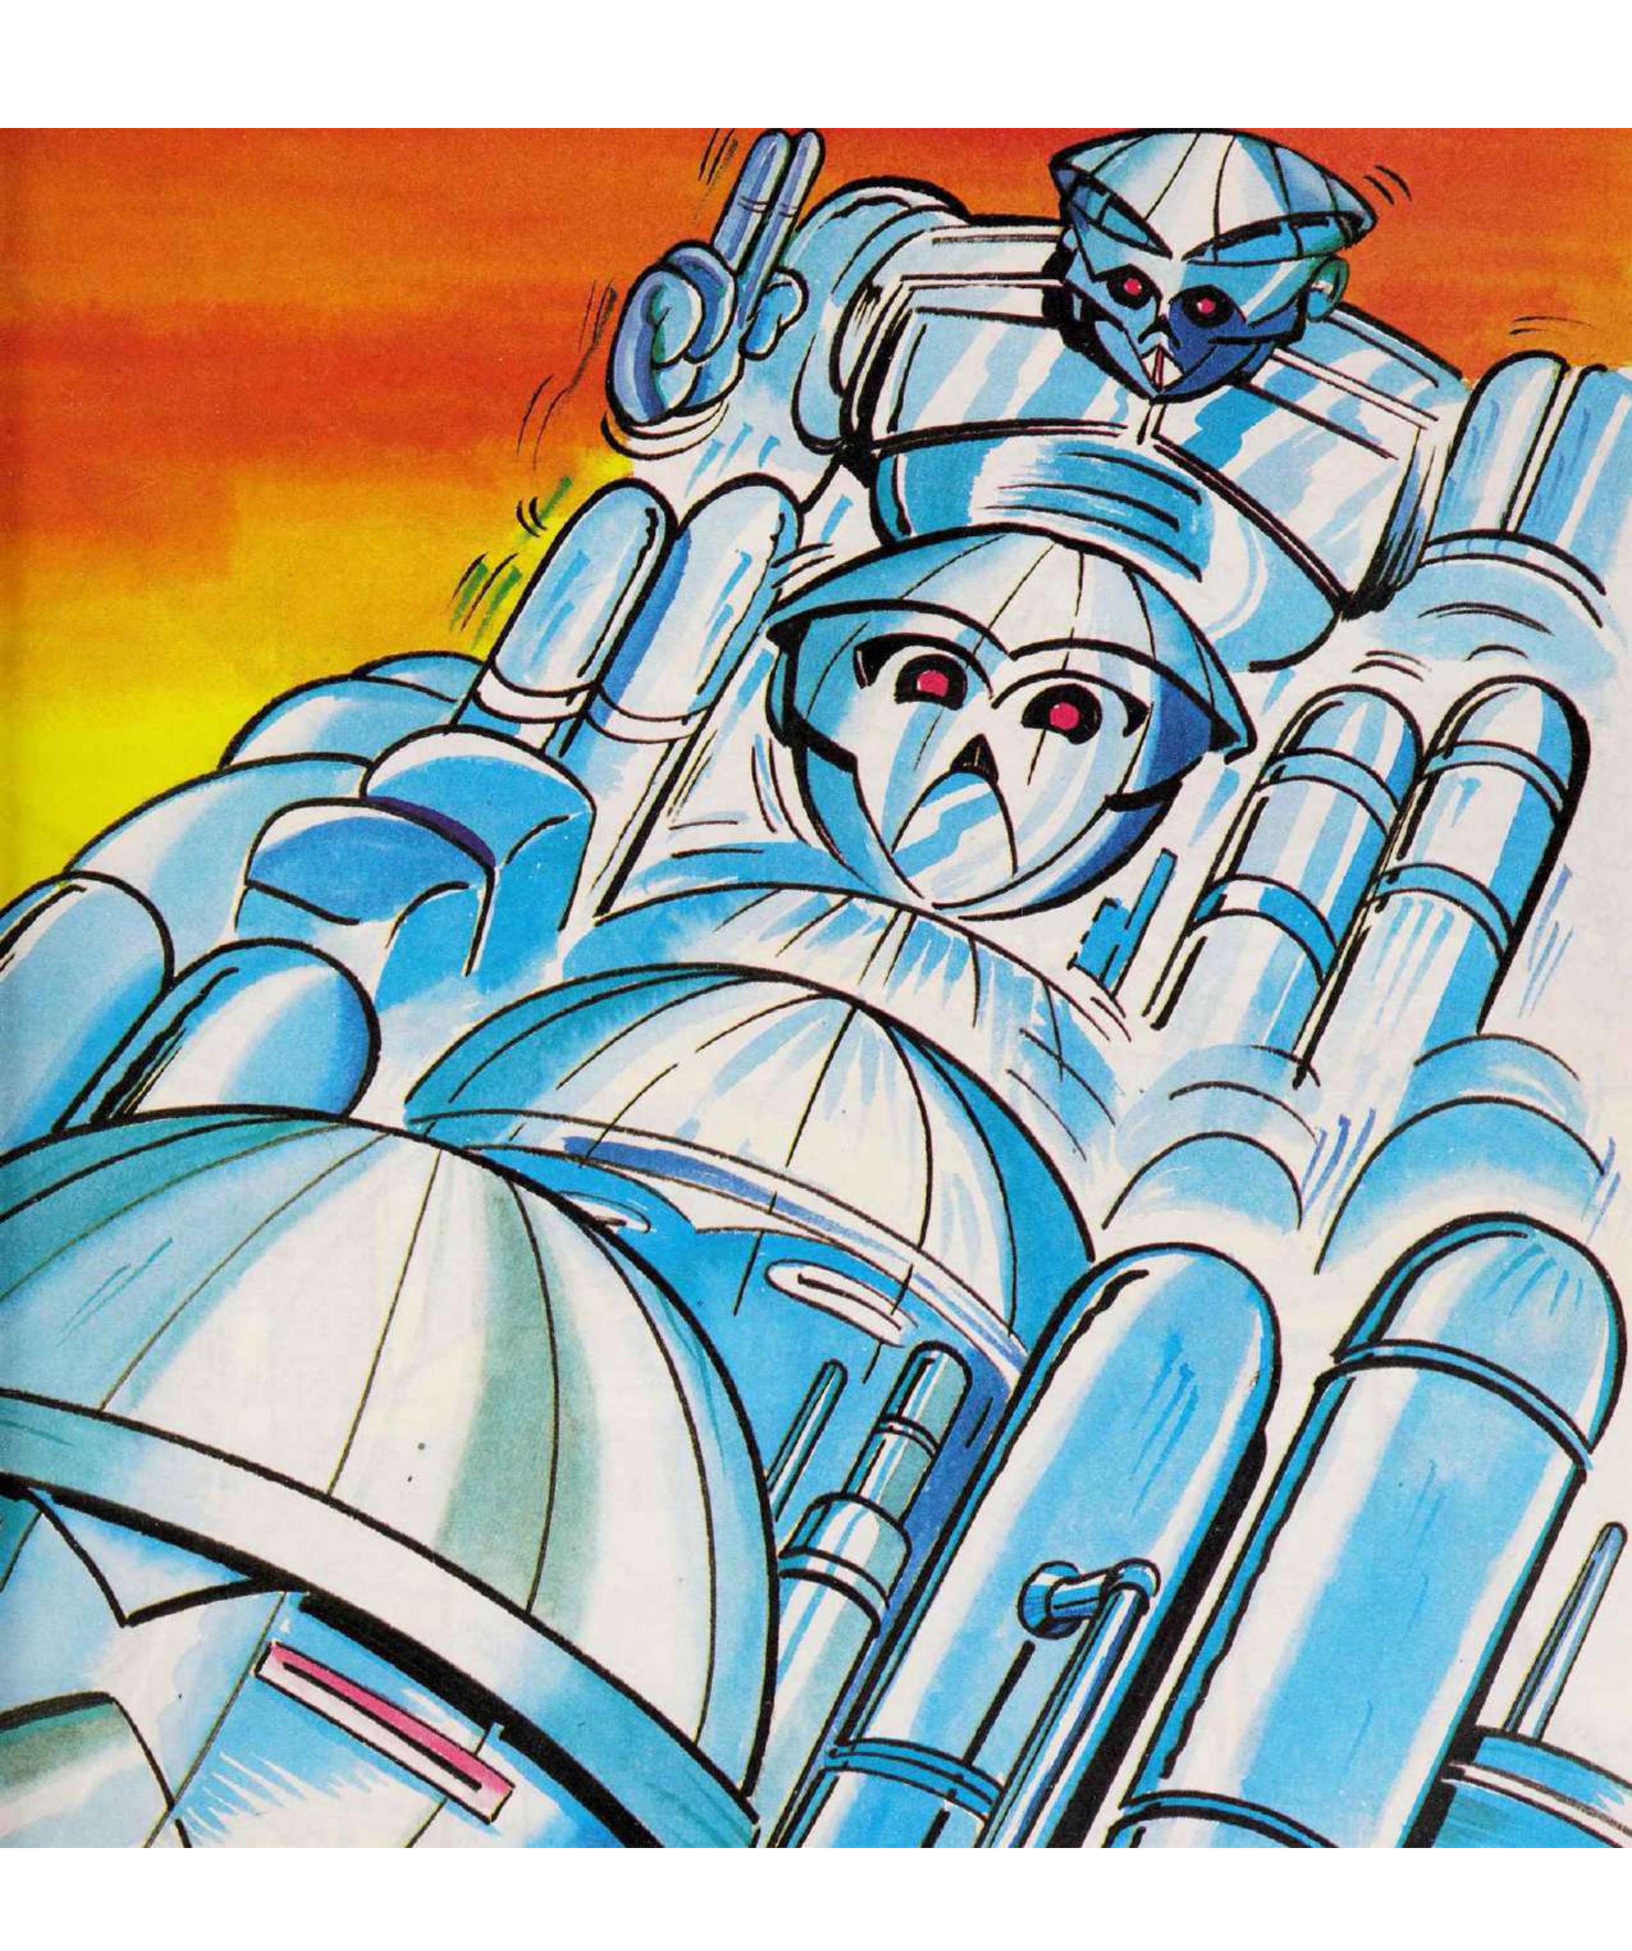

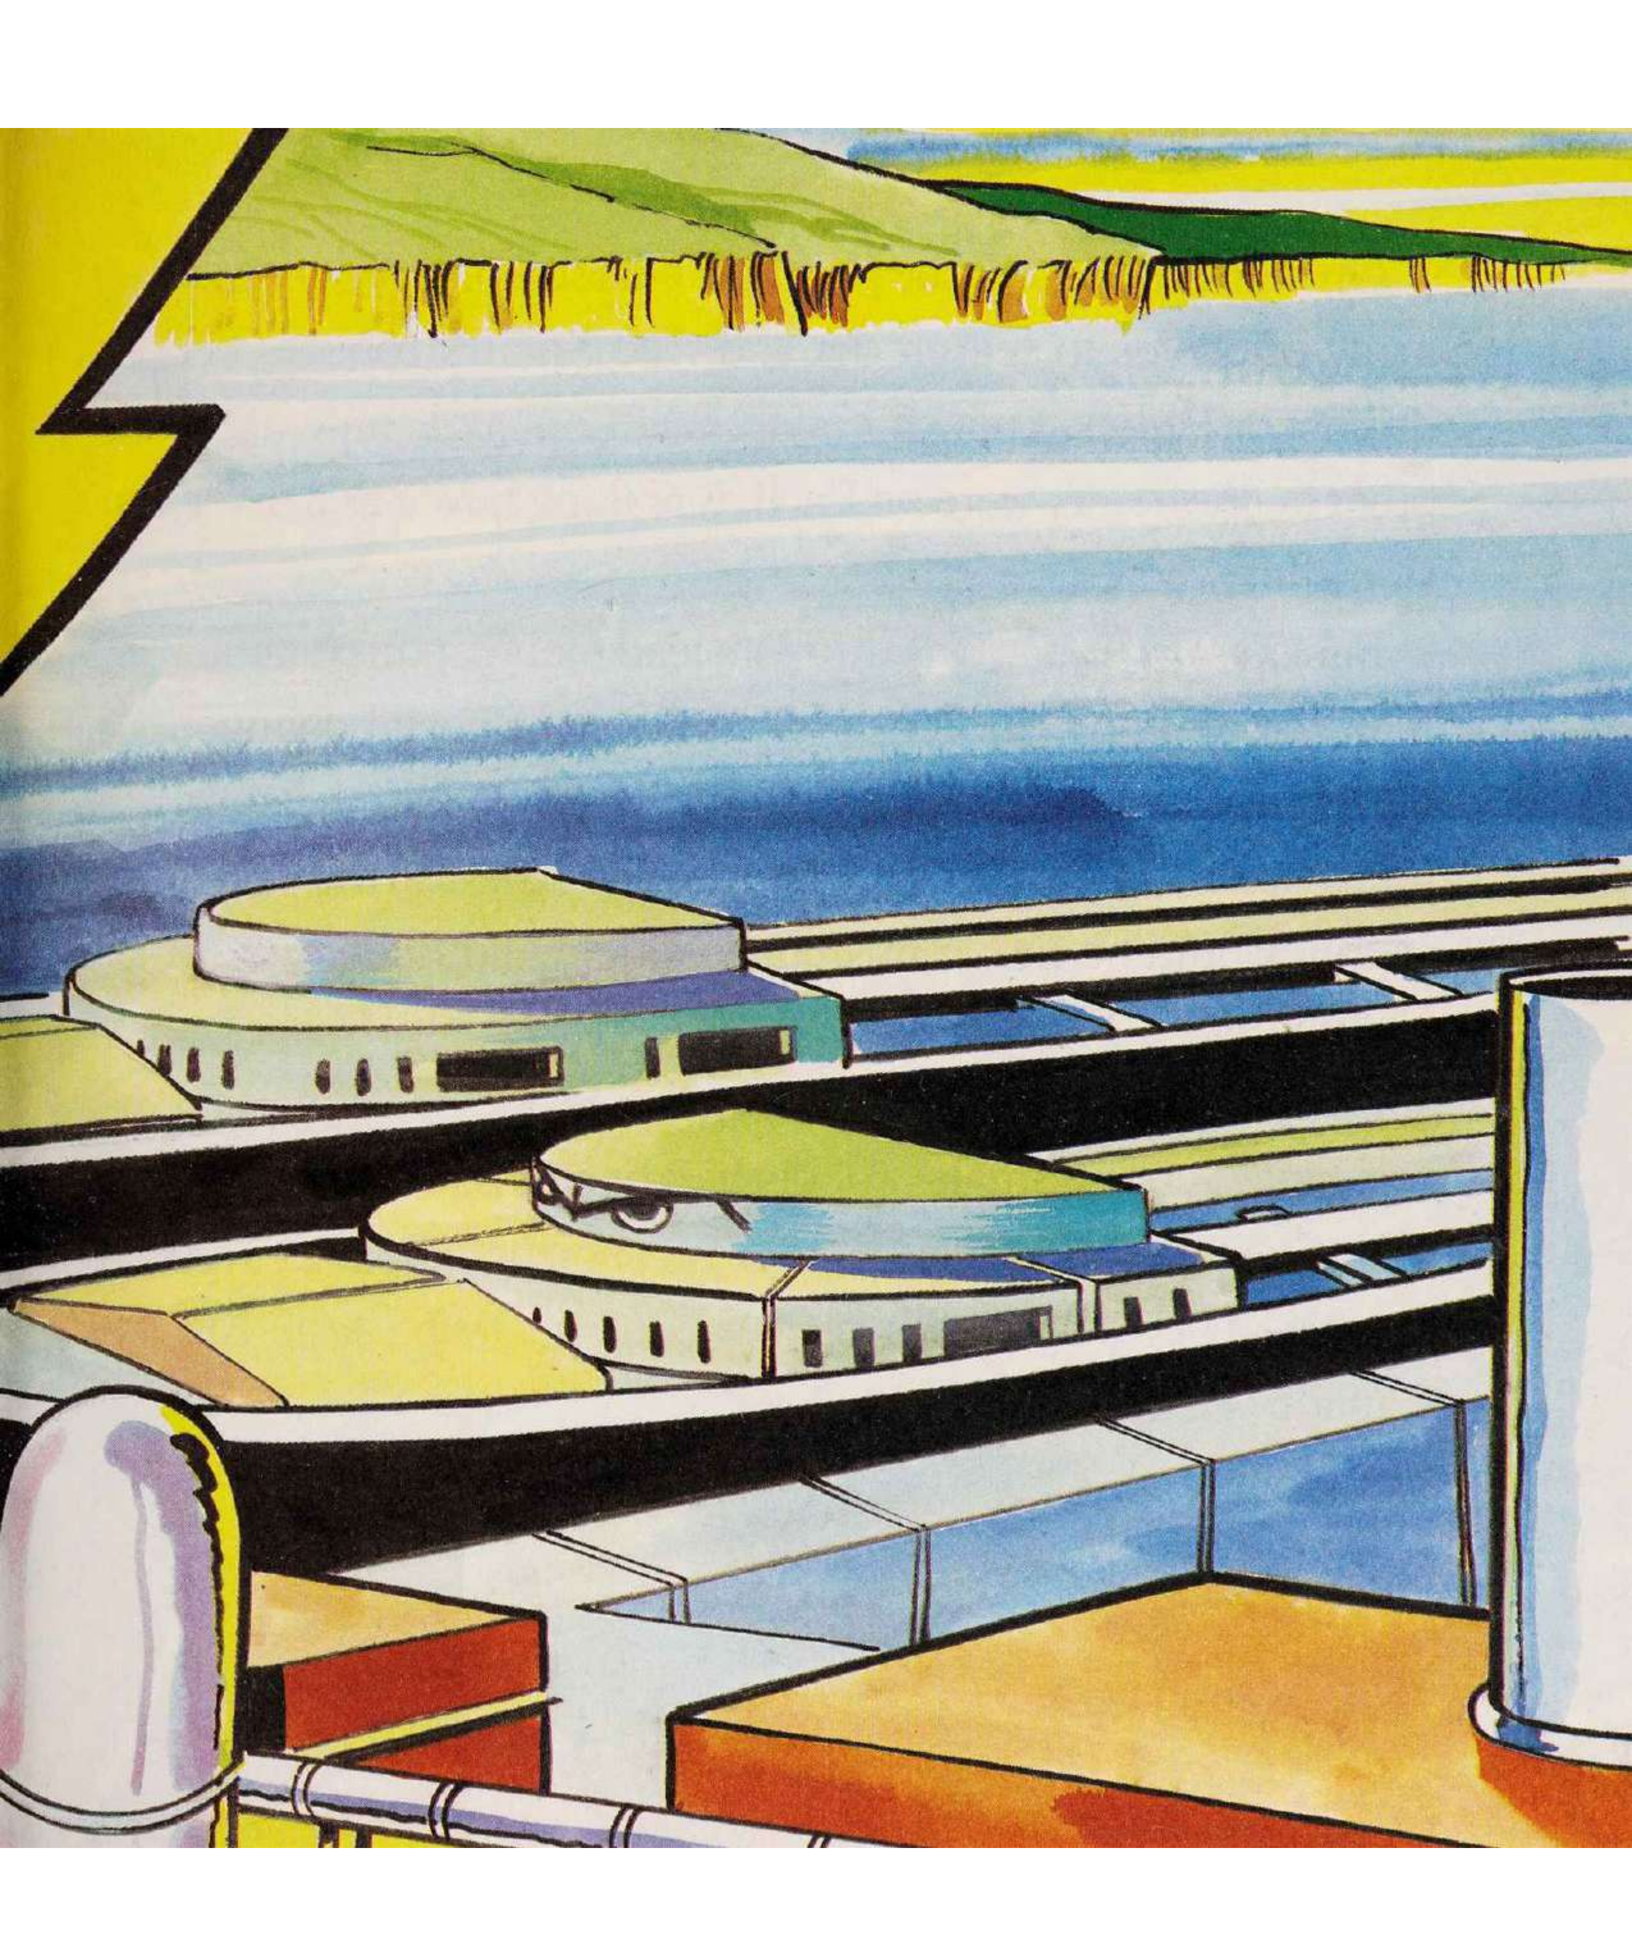

Reinforcements were needed! Captain Victor and his Robot Changer fleet were sent to the planet Earth to head off the Marshal's marauding robots. Victor knew Marshal Small well, and knew that this king of evil would send more than one Zzerial to do his dirty work.

Victor was right. As the Robot Changers flew at hyper-speed toward Earth, the evil Zzerials were changing into oil refinery storage tanks that would lie in wait until the tanker fleet arrived at the refinery.

With the aid of their hypersensor temperature gauge modifiers, the Robot Changers pinpointed the location of the evil forces.

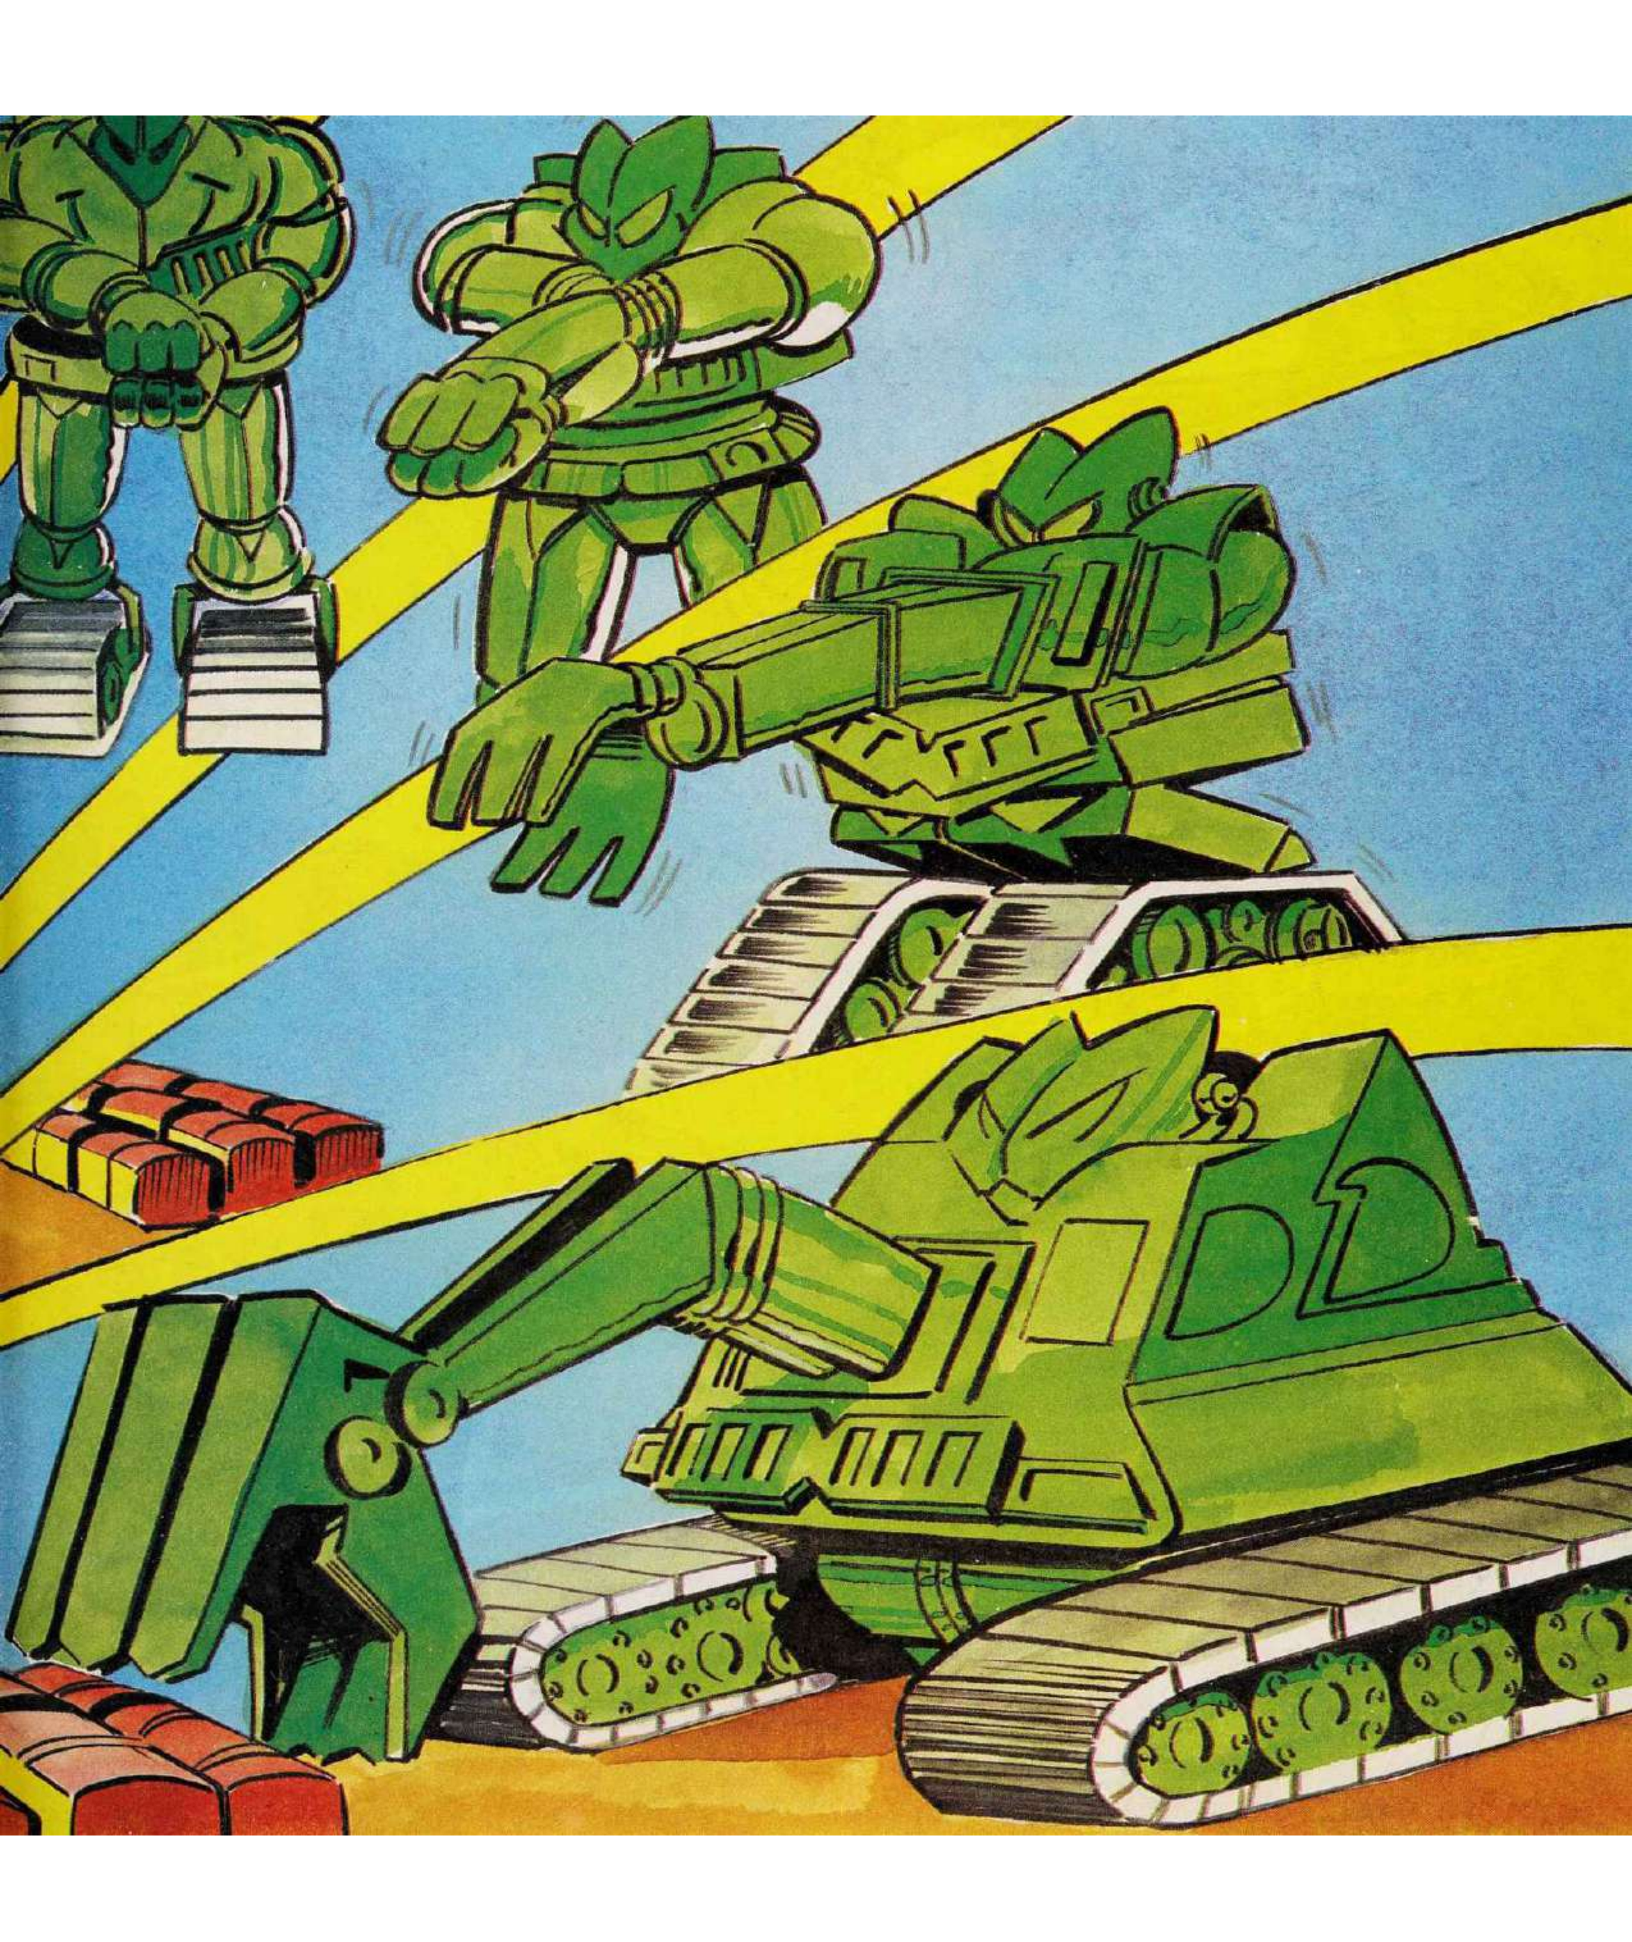

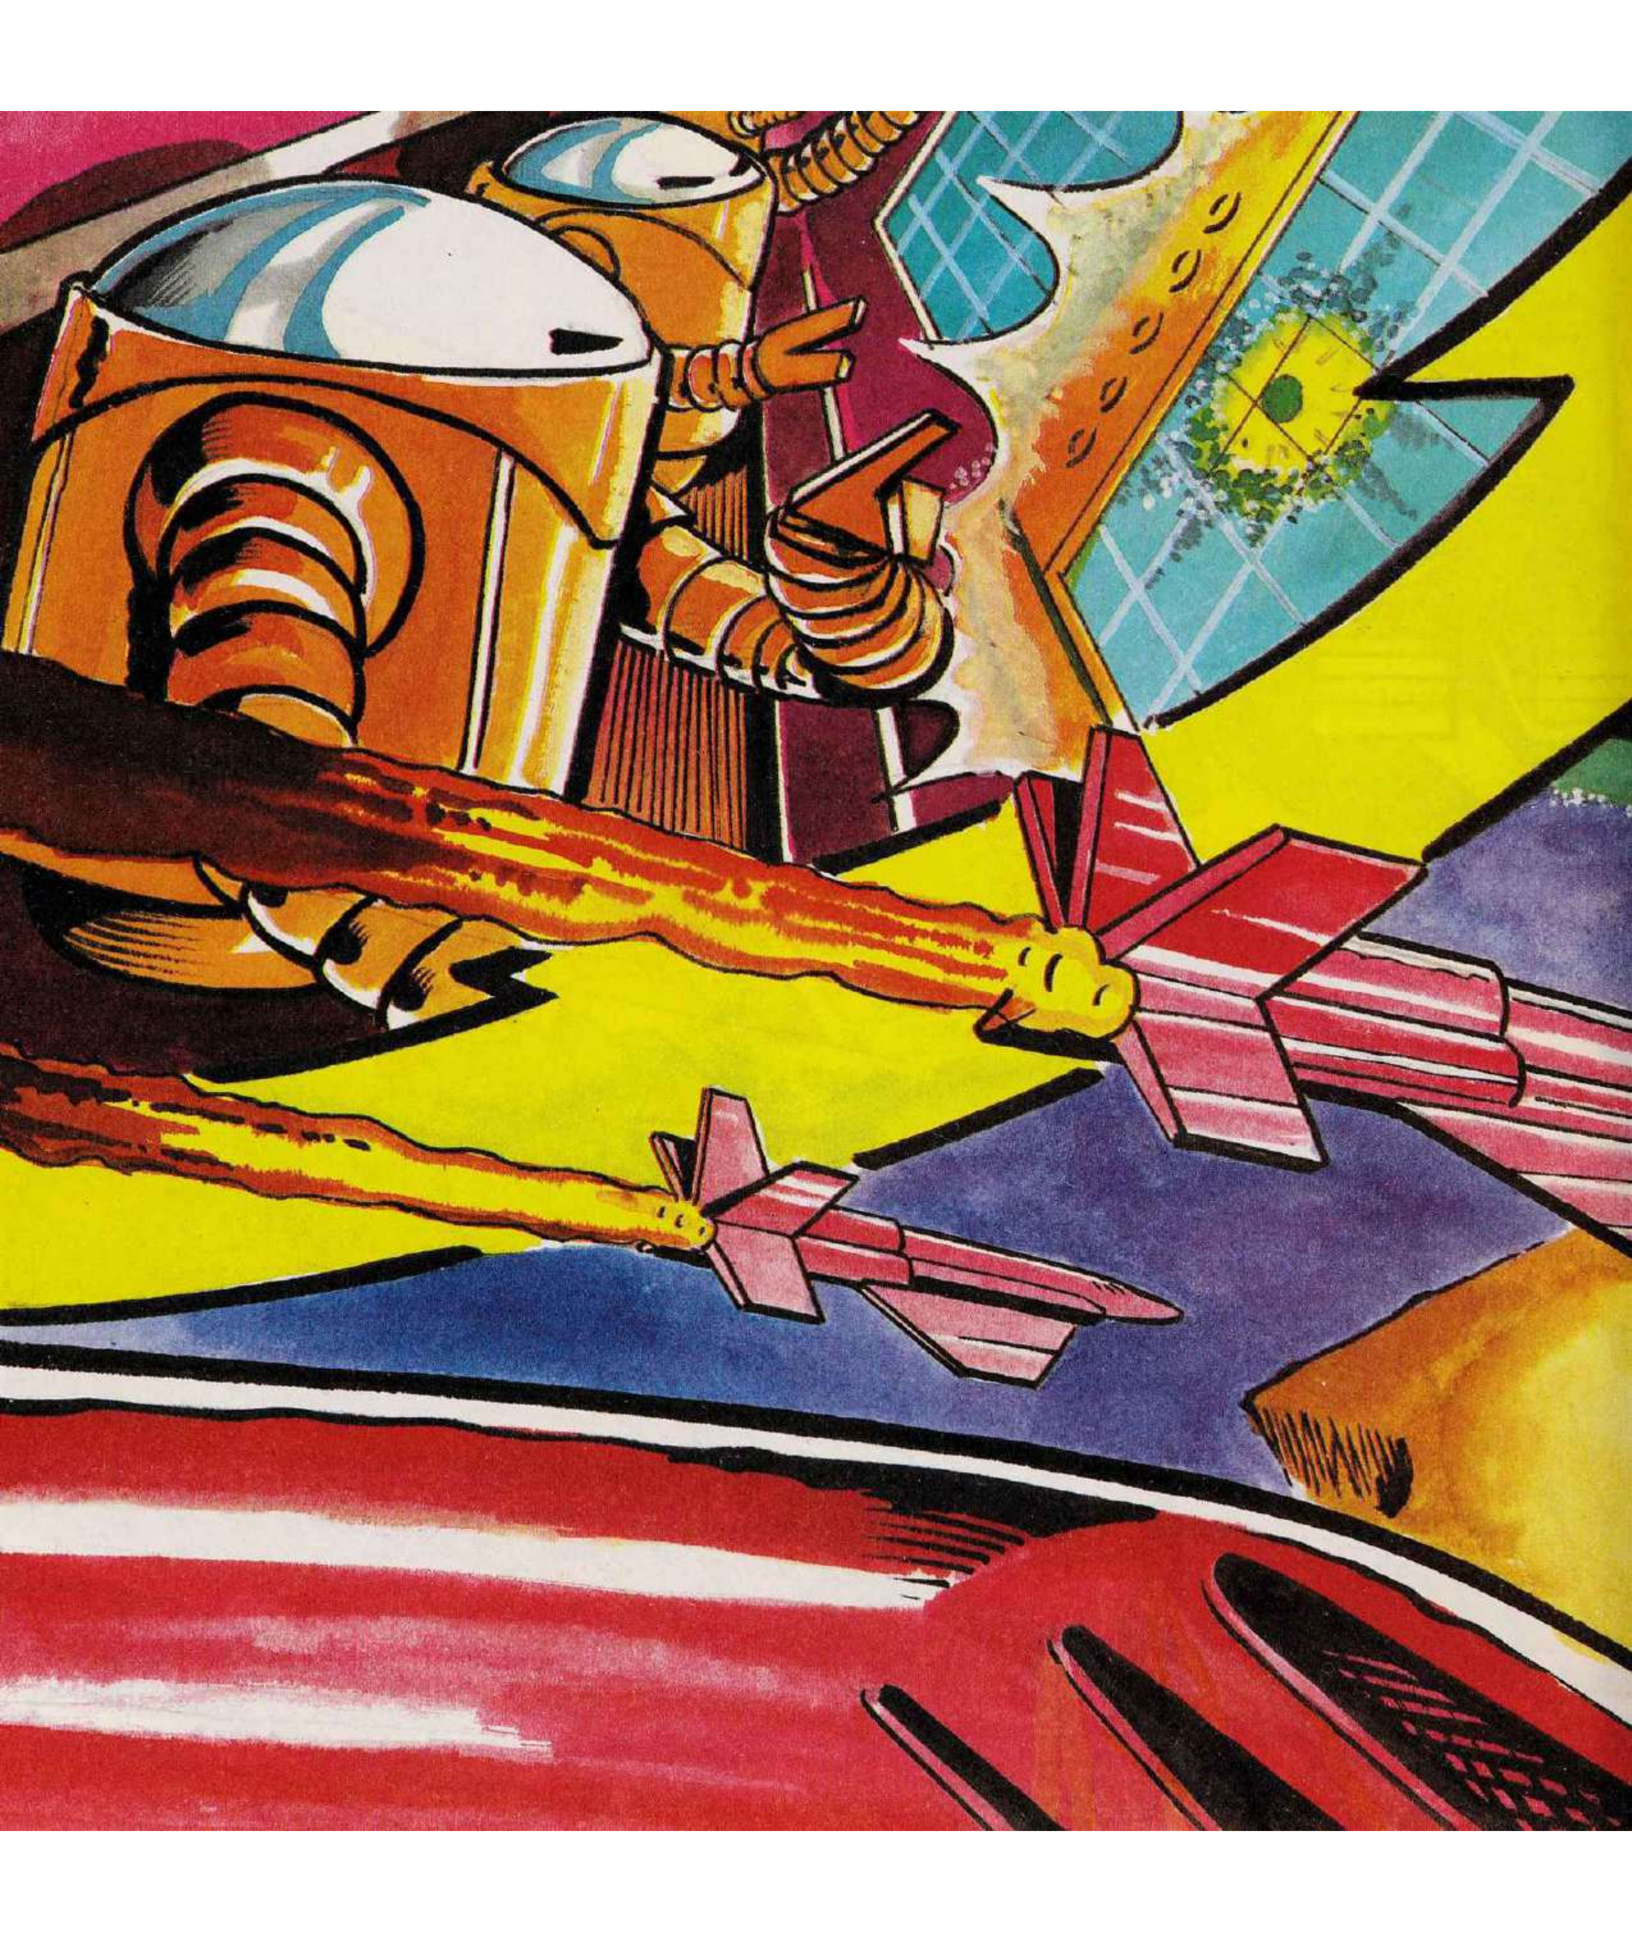

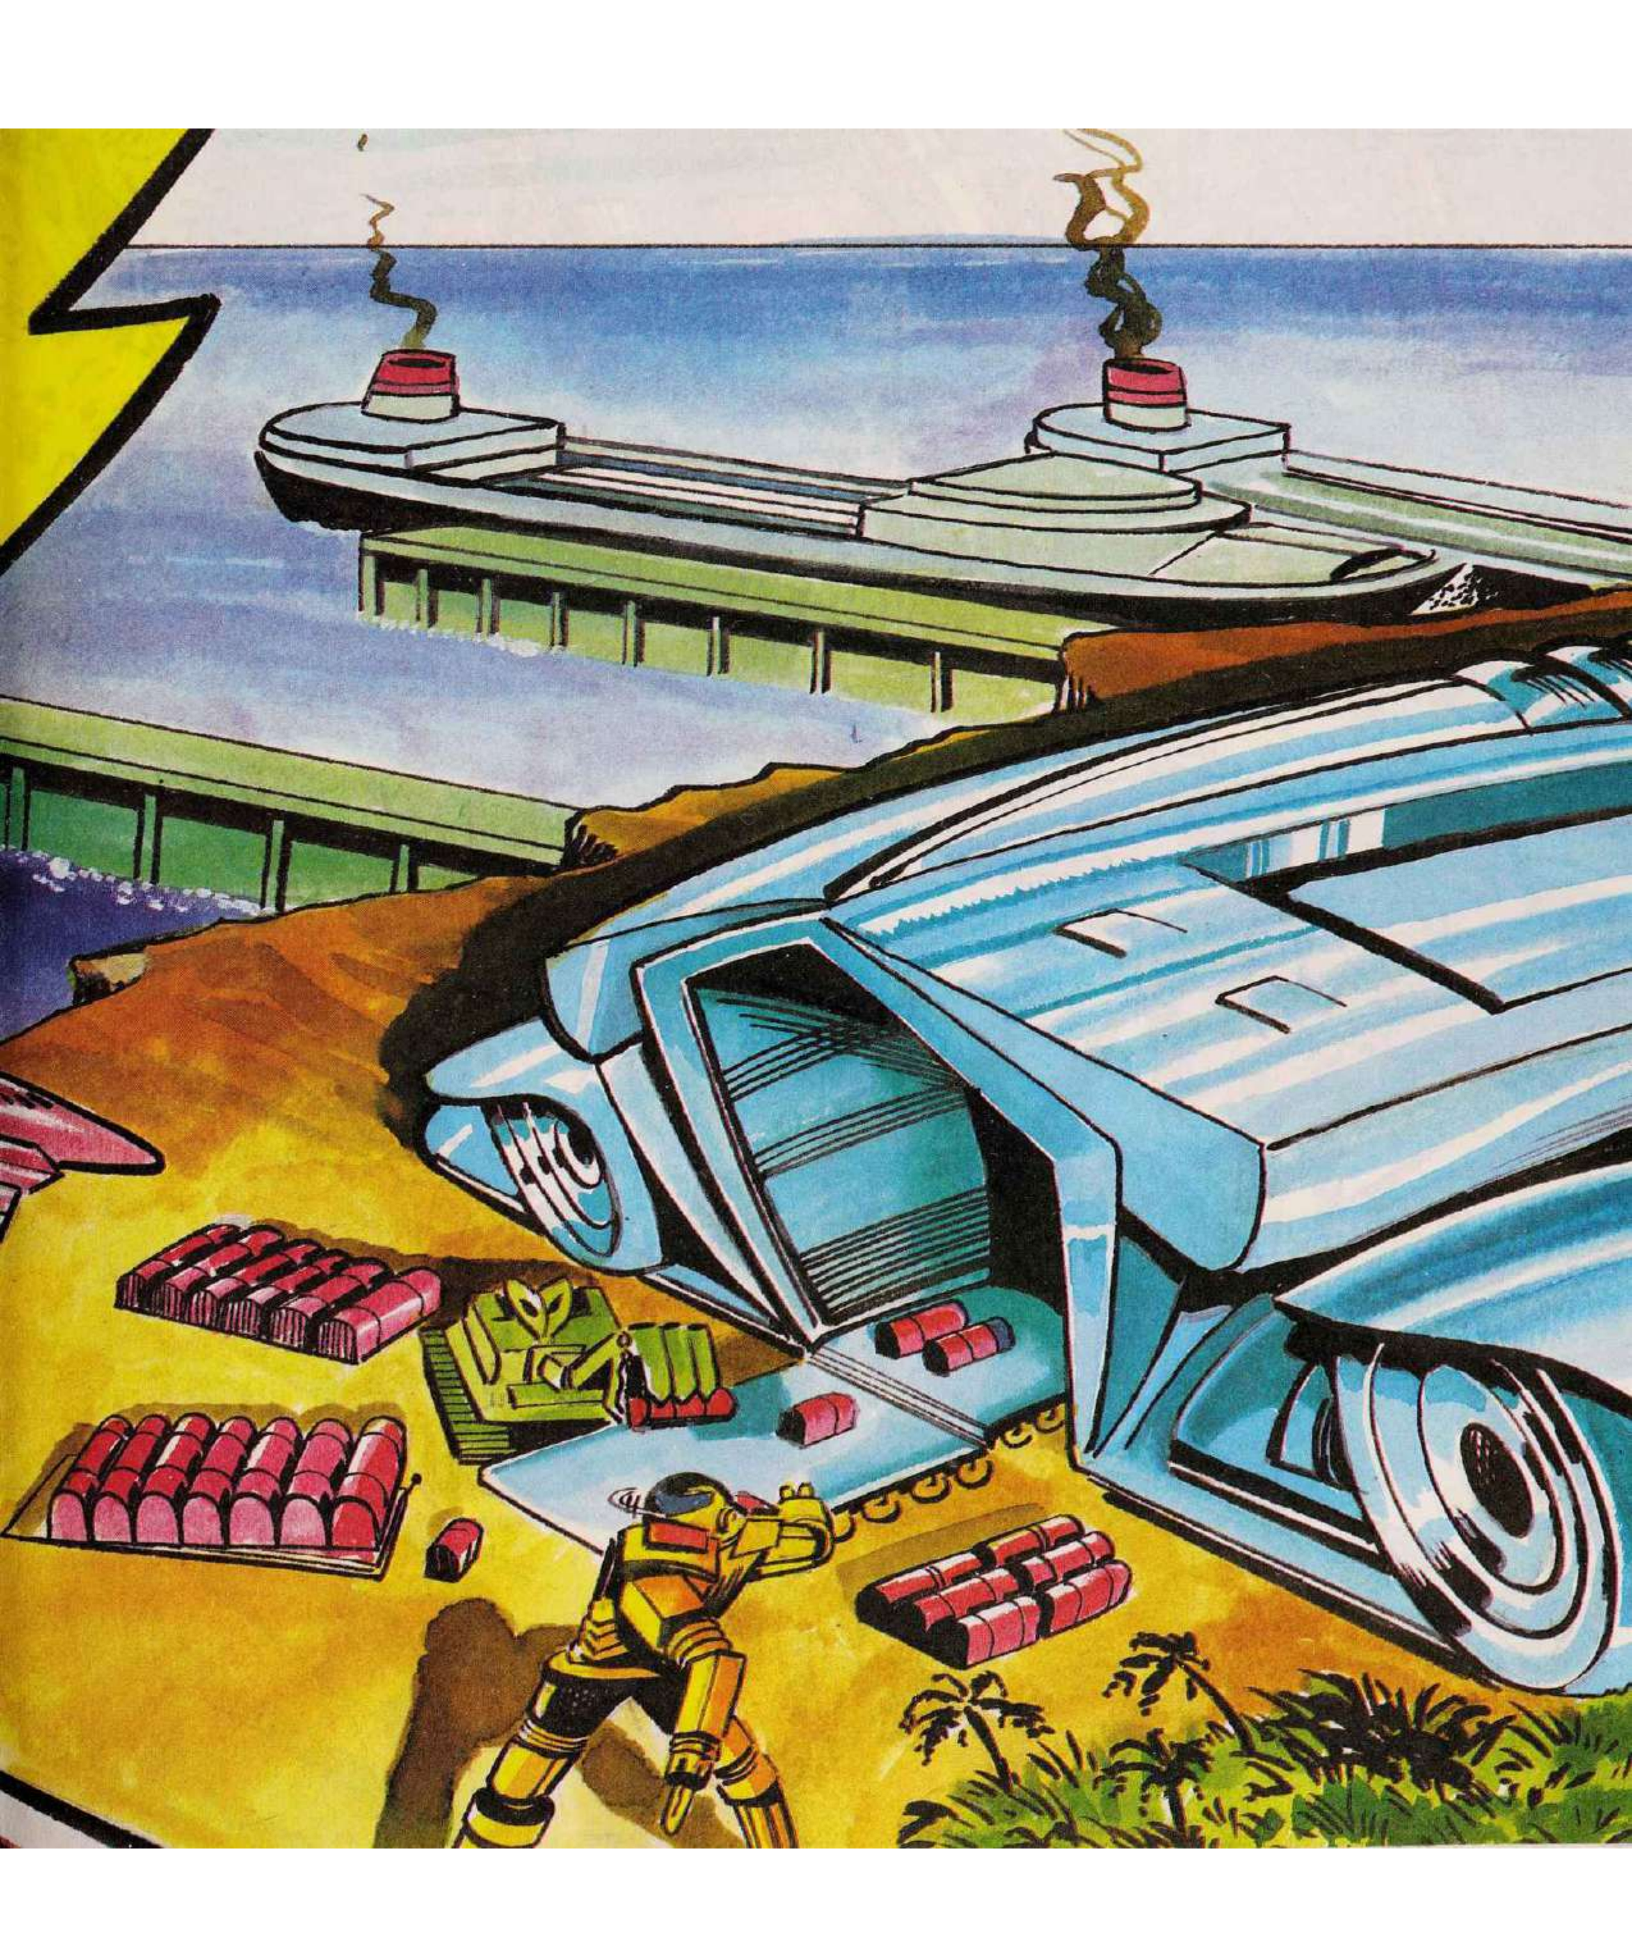

On planet Qualken, the Director General ordered his vast army of droids to search out and find Small's robots. The droids, or Fedics, knew for a fact that Root and some of the other evil warriors were on Earth wreaking havoc as a diversion, but where?

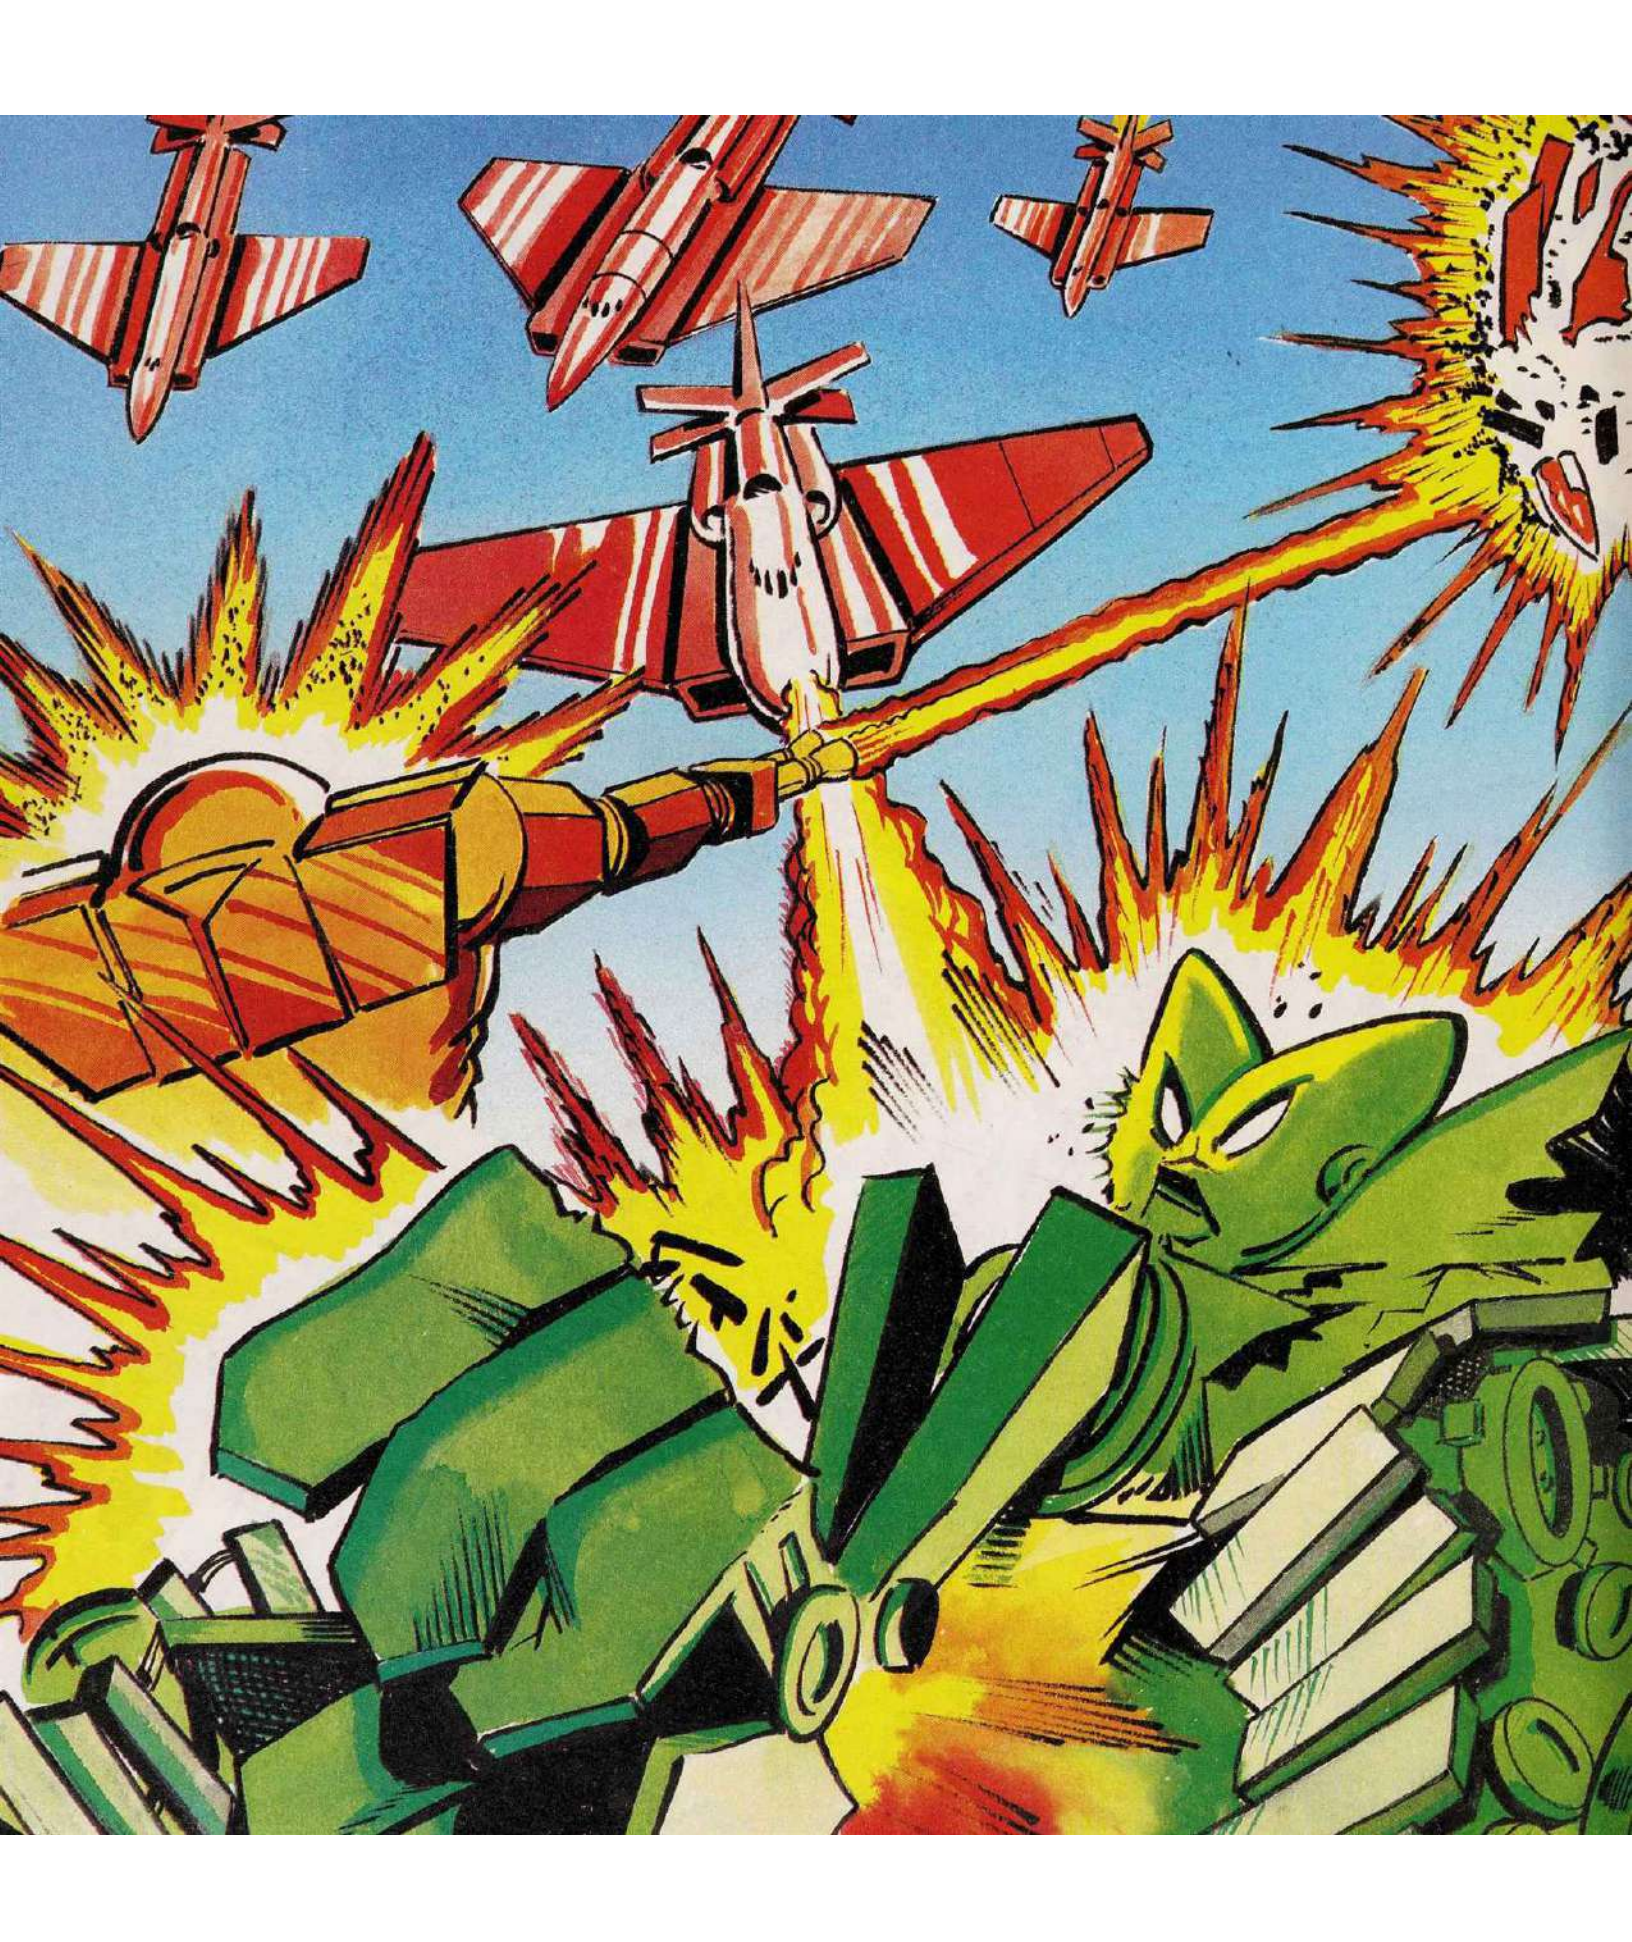

Back on Earth, the evil warriors lead their captured tanker fleet into the refinery. Once docked, one Zzerial changed into a huge crane and started to unload the oil into the enormous space cargo carrier. Before long, the Earth's entire supply would be inside this huge vehicle and on its way to Galaxy 9E.

Suddenly the communicator sensors in Victor's computer burst into action. Small's robots had been discovered in the oil refinery, loading the fuel into the enormous space cargo vehicle. The evil Small's plan was about to be foiled by Captain Victor.

The precision training and high caliber of the Robot Changer troops was evident at once.

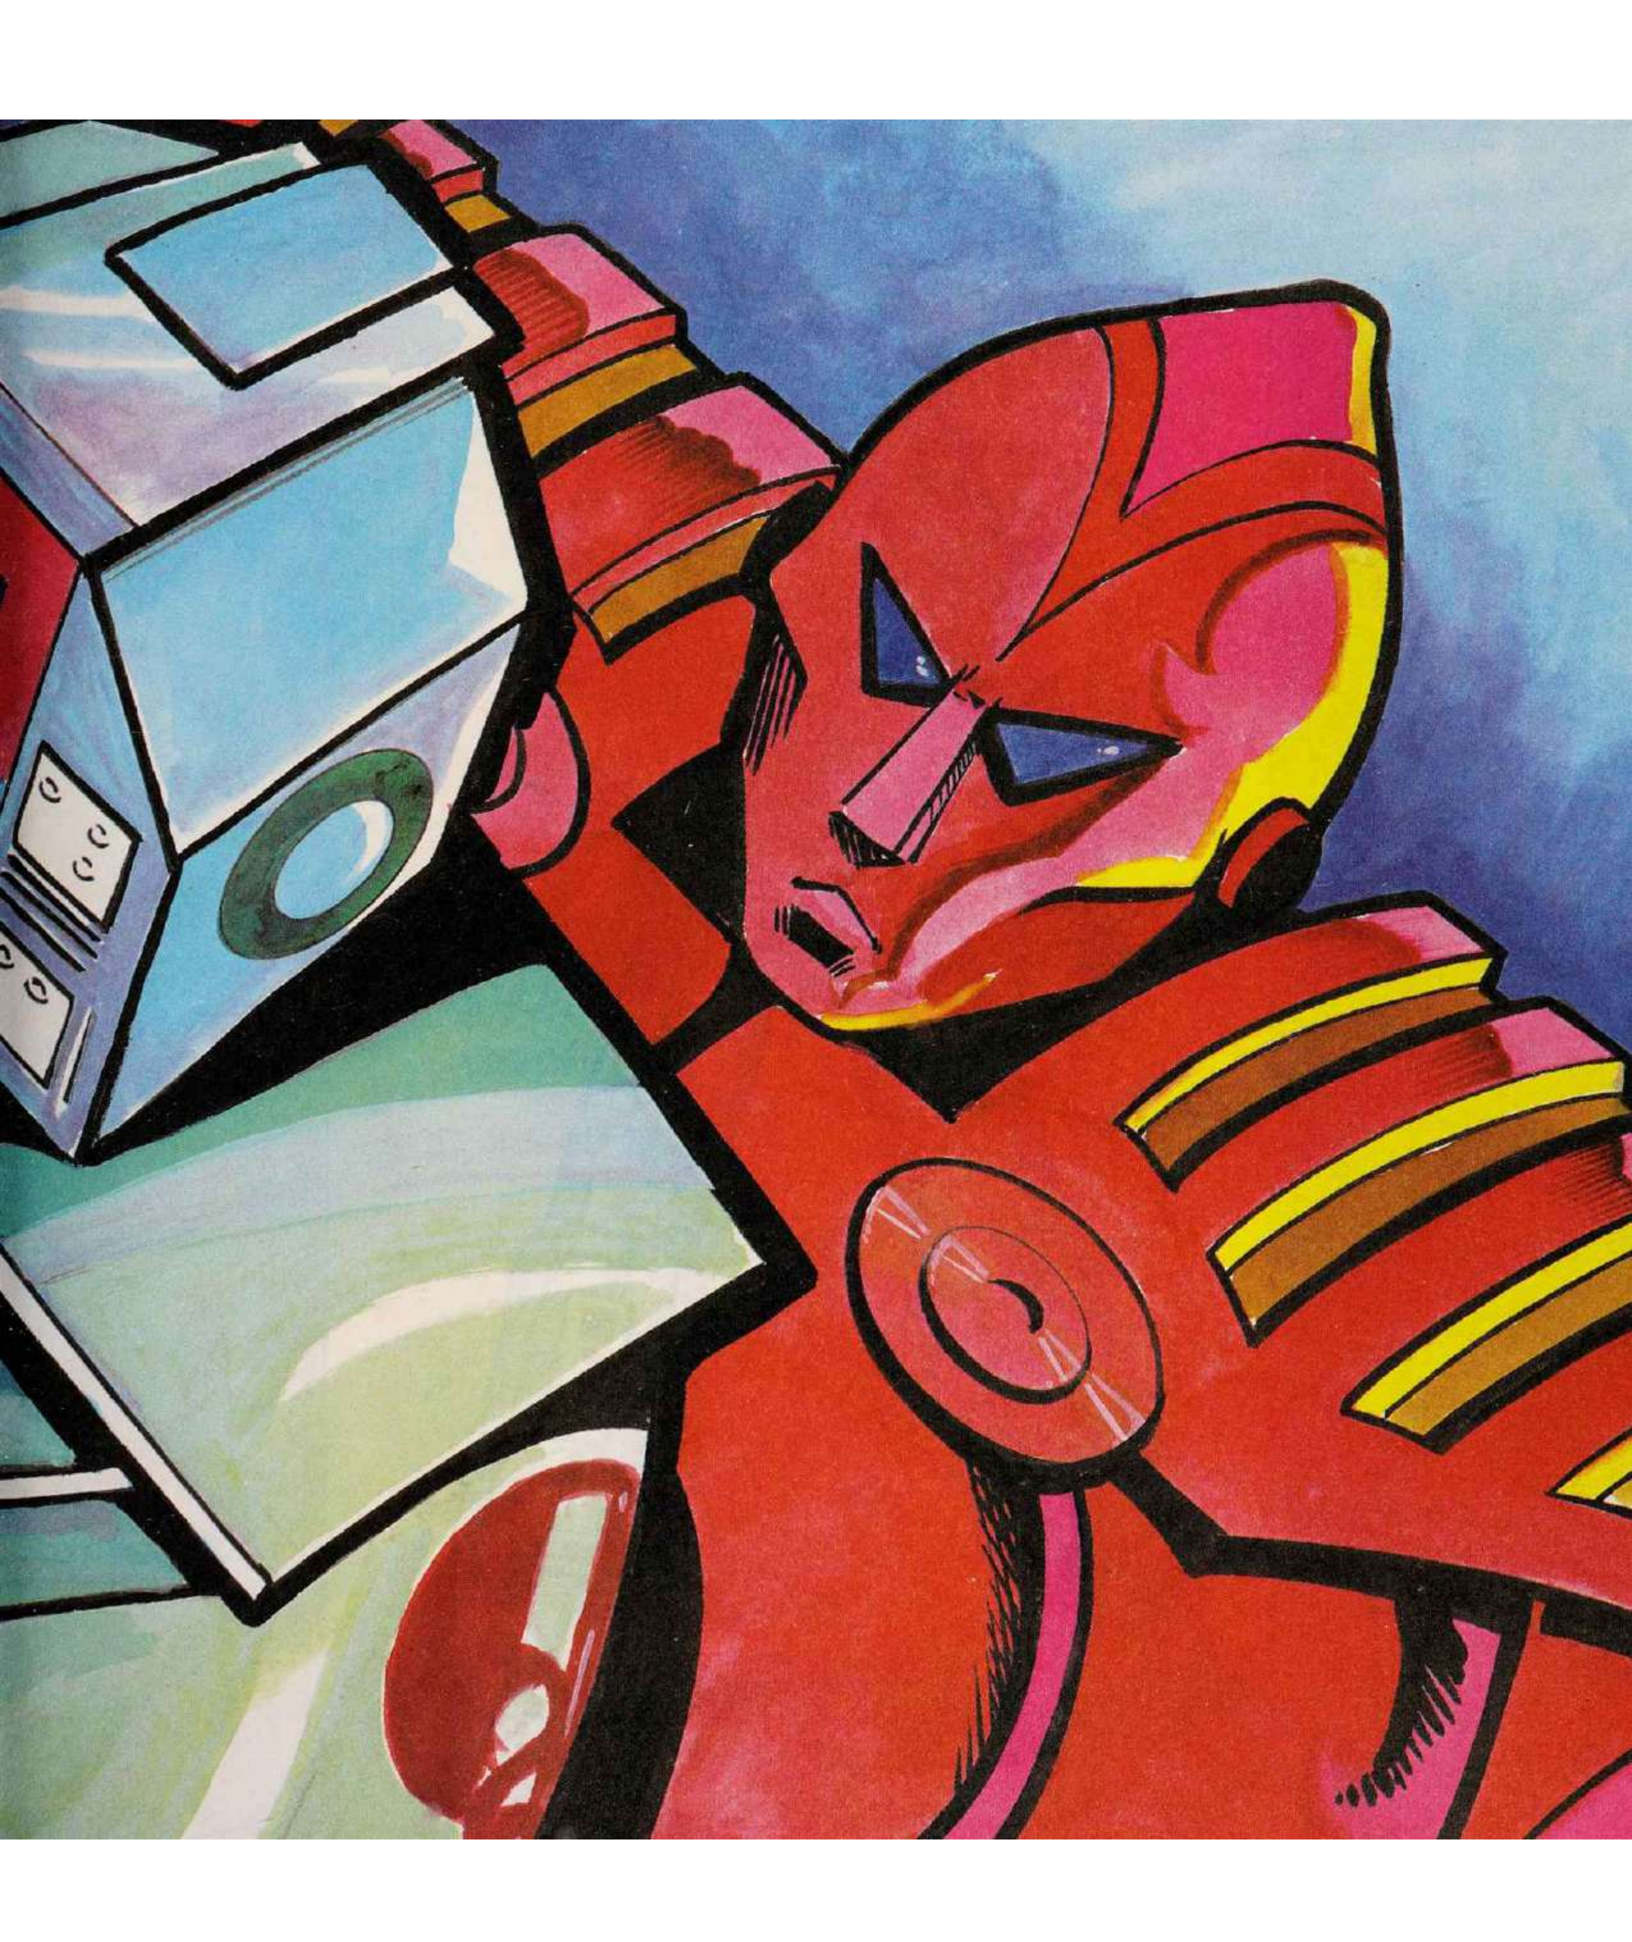

The Robot Changers zoomed down on their enemies and blasted them into eternity. Then they destroyed the enormous space cargo carrier after safely removing the precious fuel.

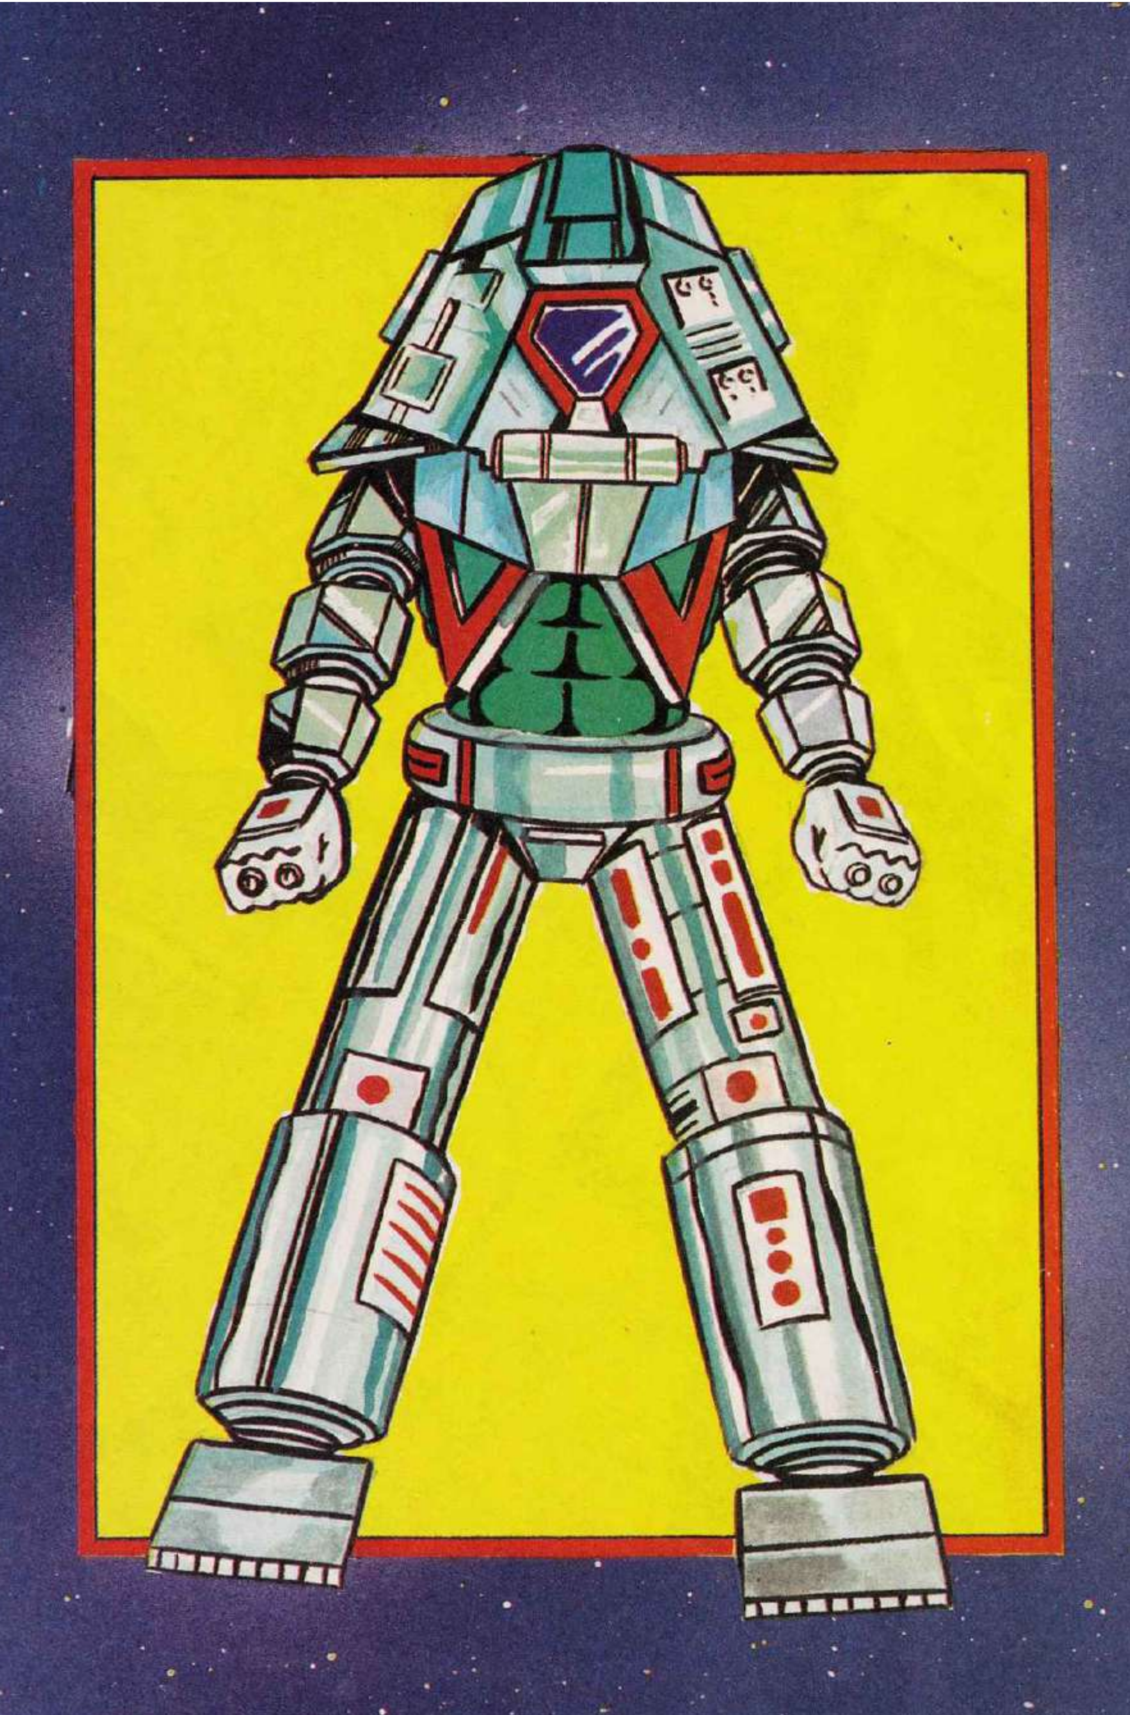

The Robot Changers attacked the Zzerials from every angle. The Marshal's forces didn't have a chance. The Zzerials who could escape zoomed into space whichever way they could.

The Robot Changers had saved Earth's fuel supply and kept Marshal Small's evil army from gaining any more power for the time being.

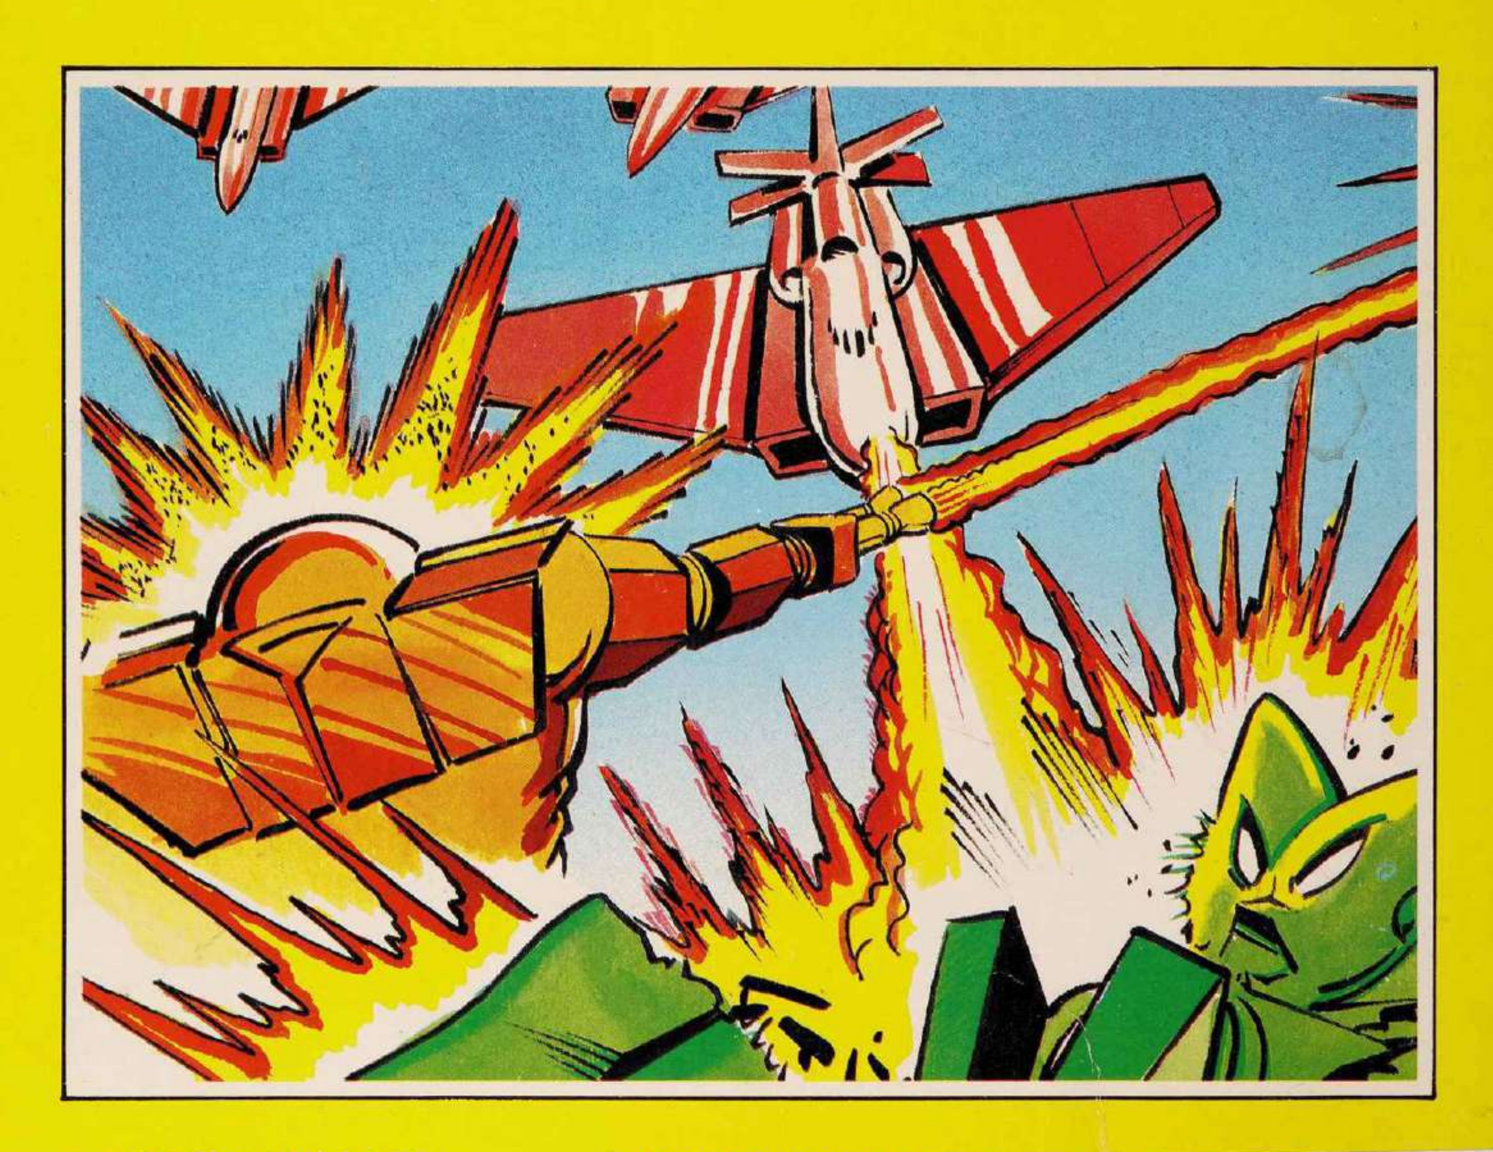

The global President of Earth called in the world leaders to congratulate the Robot Changers. The meeting was held on the highest skyscraper in New York so that they could thank Victor and his chief Fedic face to face.

Meet the Robot Changers™—the mighty warriors from outer space that change into vehicles as they move from planet to planet. The Robot Changer fleet are the protectors of the galaxy, in constant battle with their enemy Marshal Small and his Zzerial warriors who are determined to have the galaxy under their evil power.
